ALL ITALIAN LINER PASSENGERS SAVED

MARSEILLE, France, Jan. 22 (AP)—Italian officials announced late this afternoon that all of the 412 passengers aboard the burned Italian motorship Orazio had been rescued, despite heavy seas and speed with which fire ravaged the vessel yesterday off the south coast of France.

FINNS FEAR OVER-ICE ATTACK

HELSINKI, Jan. 22 (AP)—Freezing of the Gulf of Finland, from the Estonian to the Finnish shore has confronted Finland with the possibility of an over-ice attack from Soviet Russian bases in Estonia.

Foreign military observers speculated today on the chances of success for such a thrust, but Finns insisted they were well prepared to meet it.

Almost as though in anticipation of such a Russian move, Finland was reported to have struck at Russian aviation bases on one of the few occasions in which the fledgling Finnish air force has challenged the big Russian aerial armada.

According to scanty reports on yesterday's operations by the Reds several Finnish towns, including Uleaborg and vicinity on the Bothnian coast, were bombed but the raids apparently did not compare with the sweep of Saturday's attacks when hundreds of planes were sighted and thousands of bombs were dropped.

(A Reuters News Agency dispatch from Helsinki said Finnish airmen had bombed the Soviet Union's great naval base at Kronstadt in the Gulf of Finland and the Estonian Port of Baltiski, where a Russian air base was set up recently by Russian-Estonian treaty.)

(Press dispatches reaching Stockholm reported that Kronstadt and an Estonian coastal base were attacked by 20 planes which returned safely to Finland.)

(An Oslo newspaper said a group of foreign volunteer fliers for Finland, including several Swedes, staged a one-hour raid on Kronstadt a few days ago.)

War Diary

142nd Day

By The Associated Press

A British destroyer and eight merchant ships, five of them neutrals, were counted as new sea war losses over the week-end which saw weather conditions continue as a vital factor in northern Europe's land warfare.

A new factor in the Finnish-Russian war was a freshly formed ice coating on the Gulf of Finland, arousing speculation over the possibility of a Russian infantry attack from Soviet bases in Estonia. Successful Finnish air raids on "certain enemy air bases" were reported by a Finnish communiqué.

The Japanese officially protested halting of the Japanese liner Asama Maru by a British warship which removed 21 German seamen on the way home from the United States by way of Japan and Siberia.

While the incident was studied, the government said Japanese embassy officials in Washington would approach the State Department on technical matters covering Japanese-American relations.

Local agents of the Italian Line, owners of the vessel, said that "only a few" members of the crew of 231 still were missing after a new checkup of survivors taken aboard half a dozen rescue ships.

Previously the line had announced that 104 persons, including 40 passengers, were missing.

The missing crew members were feared to have been killed outright by an explosion of undetermined cause which occurred about 5 a. m. yesterday starting the fire, which raged all day. The vessel still was burning today.

SURVIVORS ILL

Forty-eight survivors brought here aboard a French warship were which were converted into emergency hospitals.

Most of the survivors were rescued by the 23,300-ton Italian liner Conte Biancamano. Others were saved by the steamer Colombo and smaller vessels.

The commander of the French warship said that his lifeboats made four trips through the storm-tossed sea to take off passengers and crew members after most of the ship's own lifeboats burned. Several survivors said only two were undamaged.

Survivors brought to Marseille including 25 women and three small children, said many passengers threw themselves into the sea to be picked up while others huddled on deck until rescued in lifeboats from other ships.

The Orazio was 38 miles south of Toulon when the first SOS went out at 5:12 a. m. yesterday.

The ship's second officer, Capt. Gioielli, who with the commander was the last to leave the burning liner, said the fire spread so rapidly there were almost no lifeboats left even by the time the SOS was sent.

"The explosion occurred in the engines," Capt. Gioielli said, "but we do not yet know for what reason. The fire was fanned by the wind and spread with such rapidity that one can say that when we sent out the SOS—and it was quite soon—we had almost no lifeboats left."

"The fire seemed to have started fore and aft at the same time. Nevertheless there was no panic. Our officers were able to direct the passengers toward their stations so they could gain the lifeboats the French and Italian ships sent to us."

The captain said he thought that no more than four or five members of the engine crew were killed by the explosion.

Boston police are holding as suspects two youths and a girl who were arrested today in a car reported to have been stolen from a Worcester man.

JAPS FILE 'KIDNAP' PROTEST

TOKYO, Jan. 22 (INS)—The Japanese government today formally protested the halting of the Japanese transpacific liner Asama Maru by a British cruiser and the removal of 21 German seamen as prisoners of war.

While the delivery of the protest note to the British embassy was a routine diplomatic move, it came as a surprise to Tokyo political circles who previously expressed the opinion that the incident would not stir up a major controversy between Japan and England.

Vice-Foreign Minister Hikozo Hagiwara, who delivered the protest note to British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, was reported to have disclosed that Japan takes a very serious view of the incident.

The Japanese cannot but regard the British action as a serious and unfriendly act, he was alleged to have stated, and must reserve the right to demand delivery of the detained Germans.

Sudden change in the official Japanese attitude gave rise to speculations as to whether it was inspired by public opinion, or by Nazi advice.

Kelly Enters Race For Governor; Hits At Saltonstall

Charging Governor Saltonstall has broken his 1938 campaign promises, former Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly today announced his candidacy for Governor on the Democratic ticket.

The announcement was the first definite move of any Democrat for the chief executive's post, although a speech of Atty.-Gen. Paul A. Dever at the recent Jackson Day dinner had been construed in some quarters as an announcement when he said he was not going to seek another term as attorney-general.

SAYS PROMISES BROKEN

Dever did not definitely state, however, that he would seek to unseat Saltonstall.

In his announcement Kelly cited his record as a Fall River finance commissioner and pointed out that his Boston residence and record of service in Boston assured him of a large percentage of the highly Democratic Boston vote.

His strength in western Massachusetts.

ELEANOR FROTHINGHAM
In Model War

Debs, Models Set for Duel

Not with sneers and upturned noses, just with swirls and graceful poses.

That's the way the gala are going to settle Boston's battle of the century—the big modeling fight between outstanding professional models and some of the city's most gracious debutantes.

And both battalions were drawn for today, save for one more meeting of the debbies tomorrow to get in their finest modeling trim.

When it will be held also was something which Mrs. William Brace Pratt of Milton is not ready yet to announce. But she has pretty Cynthia Burrage, Boston's No. 1 glamour deb; Peggy Parker, Eleanor Frothingham, Lucy Cochrane, Nancy Vogel, Louise Sargent, Anne Phillips and a few other socialites all ready to combat the "pros."

Their acceptance to a duel at modeling came after professional models complained to Gov. Saltonstall that all this business of debutantes modeling was "unfair."

and contractors sent bills for work they never did, State Auditor Russell A. Wood charged today in a report following his investigation of the adjutant-general's department.

Listed under items for which money was spent as a result of the hurricane, Wood reported, were such articles as a sewing machine and lathes. He also listed a "conference" at the Copley-Plaza which cost the state $113.85 for food and wines.

CHARGES WASTAGE
He said Gen. Charles H. Cole engaged William M. Drummy as an architect to estimate hurricane damage Sept. 28, 1938, and that Drummy listed repairs to be made which had no connection with the hurricane.

An appropriation of $321,900 had been made to the department for all supposed repairs.

Wood further charged that in several instances Cole ignored the low bidding contractors, who themselves violated state rulings on wages to be paid for labor by paying 50 cents an hour as against the 62½ cents an hour set by the State Department of Labor and Industries.

UNNEEDED REPAIRS
Contracts for $182,887.75 for repairs on 36 armories were made by the adjutant general with such widespread items as "installing flagpoles in place of those missing." In that particular case, according to Wood, the flagpoles were supposed to be installed at the Natick armory.

In many armories, the report says, "instances were noted where the work done did not appear to be 'repair, reconstruction and replacement of buildings and other property,' made necessary by recent hurricane and floods," despite the fact that the architect was supposed to recommend only repairs needed because of the hurricane.

At the Adams armory, the custodian told Wood's investigators a new boiler was installed, but it had been requested long before the hurricane. At the Charlestown armory two flagpoles unaffected by the hurricane were replaced with new ones.

ROOF STILL LEAKS
At the Everett armory new copper conductors were put in where none had been before the storm and new doors were installed although the old doors were not harmed by the winds.

The only damage done at the Newton armory was caused when the wind tore two or three slats off the roof. The adjutant general, however, let a contract for $3975 supposedly to repair hurricane damage, it is reported.

At the Cambridge armory the roof now leaks worse than it did before it was supposedly repaired, and the Newton armory reports similar conditions, the report states. It cost the State $17,254.54 for meals and hotel expenses while the State officials toured the armories, all being paid out of the "hurricane" fund.

Clothing cost $4,621.47; military pay and allowances cost $63,504.62, and gasoline and oil $2,217.13.

The "hurricane" appropriation even paid for automobile tires, $67.35. There was also an item for "rifle practice," $100.

Bares 'Inside Story' Of Huge Pool Racket

A "gigantic racket, a conspiracy without precedent in the history of Middlesex County," was the number pool racket run in Somerville by Joseph Hotze, Dist. Atty. Robert F. Bradford charged today.

NET STAR IN COURT

SARAH PALFREY FABYAN

FABYAN DIVORCE DECISION HELD UP

NEWBURYPORT, Jan. 22—Demure Sarah Palfrey Fabyan, world famous tennis player told Judge John A. Costello, in probate court today that her husband, Marshall, had been continually cruel to her after the first year of their marriage in 1934.

Dime Thriller Is Clue to Extort Note

MARBLEHEAD, Jan. 22—Origin of the "Blue Triangle" signature attached to the extortion note written to the father of 12-year-old Estelle Parsons was believed established today, as the menaced child went to school under heavy guard.

The clue that police hoped would lead to identification of the extortion note writer was furnished by the book department of a local five and ten cent store.

Discovered there was a "dime-thriller" in which a criminal gang called itself the "Blue Triangle."

Police and federal agents immediately began a check-up today of sales of this "Blue Triangle" book, believing it inspired the signature of the letter written to wealthy and socially prominent Atty. Eben Parsons, little Estelle's father.

The threat note told Atty. Parsons to put $500 under a tree in a Marblehead square or he'd never see his daughter again.

Marblehead police called G-men and postoffice inspectors into the case and put 12-year-old Estelle and her older sister, a student in an exclusive New Hampshire private school, under 24-hour a day guard.

Today Estelle went to Marblehead junior high school in her father's auto, with a police guard riding beside her.

He branded it a $3,000-a-year ring that milked the poor, paid off the police, and was a greater menace "than any revolutionary group."

The district attorney, in a sensational move as 20 defendants appeared in court for sentencing, made a long and stirring appeal that the "big shots" be sent to jail.

OUTLINES "BIG RACKET"

Bradford spoke before a Middlesex county superior criminal session which was packed to the doors with spectators and a battery of 15 lawyers representing the defendants.

"Some months ago State Police investigators attached to my office began to investigate men going in and out of a quiet Somerville office," he said. "After weeks they began to outline the form of a gigantic racket, a conspiracy without precedent, a huge syndicate operating number pool and horse plays covering all metropolitan Boston."

"This was the Hotze organization. It had headquarters in Boston as far back as 1934; it moved to Somerville in 1937. Hundreds of writers and agents turned in number plays or horse plays to pick-up men, each responsible for his own group of agents."

"Joe Hotze made the decisions. If he said you didn't take a bet, you didn't take it; if an agent didn't pay too well it was Joe who said 'We don't want you any more' and that was that."

"Joe knew all the answers. When anyone was 'knocked off' he took care of that, too. Fifty per cent of every dollar taken in went into Joe's pocket."

HUGE BANK DEBIT

"Some idea of the size of the bank account is indicated in that from September 1938 to September 1939, $1,172,948 was deposited to Hotze's account there."

"Significant in the records are notes 'Expenses, cops, $60; expenses, cops, $10; cops, $20; cop, $5; pinch, $50; and a single item each month marked, expense, $750.'"

"The last item was explained as the money necessary for an agent to operate in his district 'without interference.'"

"July was a bad month. Hotze did a gross of $274,000, profit of $85,000. He grossed well over $3,000,000 a year."

"That is the story of a racket employing over 500 agents, whose board of directors and boss stand before you today."

VICTIMIZED NEEDED

"Their business was to take the public's money from the little people, the least able to afford the luxury of gambling, the welfare recipient, those beaten down by successive waves of despair."

"It has been claimed these men were not gamblers. You don't need a gun if you know no one is going to bother you. And a man sitting on top of $3,500,000 a year can see to a great deal."

"To my mind more serious than the totals of this racket is the fact that men of this type, armed with money gotten from misery, make of themselves a power in the community sufficient successfully to defy for six long

165 ARE FORCED TO FLEE ROXBURY, NORTH END FIRES

More than 165 persons were forced to flee fires in Roxbury and the North End today, a Roxbury man suffered severe burns, three men were rescued in a general alarm blaze in Quincy and firemen had narrow escapes in an alcohol still blaze in Lexington.

Damage in today's fires was estimated in excess of $150,000.

Two alarms were sounded for the North End blaze, which drove 20 persons, including 14 women, from a six-story brick building in Hanover st., occupied by the Young Novelty Co.

Hanover st. traffic was blocked for two hours. Damage was set at $25,000.

$30,000 ROXBURY FIRE

In Roxbury, Herbert McCawley, 23, was burned about the face in a two-alarm blaze that smoked out the 40-apartment five-story Adelphi building in Washington st., near Dudley st.

A second Roxbury fire damaged a store and dwellings in East Cottage st.

Firefighters risked their lives at each blaze by taking to high ladders in order to battle the flames. Police under the direction of Sgt. Arthur D. Timmons helped guide the Adelphi building residents to safety after Miss Dorothy Holland, 27, who was awakened by smoke, ran through the corridors shouting the warning.

In the Quincy fire, which was confined to the third floor of the Coolidge building, after a hard battle, Patrolmen Edmund Genero and Frank Schaller led out three men by rear fire escapes.

Clothing stores, a jewelry shop and beauty parlors suffered heavy smoke and water damage, while a gymnasium conducted by Charles Pappas, former wrestler, was wrecked.

The screams of Helen Clougherty, 22, saved 14 other persons from possible suffocation when fire broke out in a grocery store beneath their homes in East Cottage st., Roxbury. Joseph Clougherty and family fled from the second floor and the family of Edward Galligan escaped from the third.

A height of a two alarm fire in Concord ave., Lexington, a blast blew out the side of a house and hurled six firemen to the ground.

In the ruins, police discovered twisted wreckage, identified as a ruined alcohol still. Pipes and coils extended from the cellar to roof and led to two 500-gallon tanks. An investigation into the ownership of the property is now under way.

Wed 50 Years, To Celebrate

The golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lynch will be celebrated at their home, 670 Columbia rd., Dorchester, Tuesday evening.

Both were born in South Boston, attended schools there, and were married at St. Augustine's Church 50 years ago. They moved to Dorchester 11 years ago.

They are the parents of six children: Sister Claire Magdalen of the Sisters of Charity; Dr. John B. Lynch, married and the father of four children; William G. Lynch, former president of the Boston City Council and now clerk of South Boston Court; Mrs. Agnes Carr, and George and James Lynch, both in the gas and oil business, both married.

BROWDER ARGUES OWN CASE

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Earl Browder, Communist leader, argued before a federal court jury today that it must acquit him of passport fraud charges unless it wished to set a precedent that a citizen may be exiled from his own country.

Although he had engaged George Gordon Battle, one of New York's best known lawyers to defend him, Browder chose to sum up his own case, explaining to the jury as he began to talk that he was a correspondence school lawyer. Moreover, he said, he was "intimately familiar" with all the facts.

The prosecution offered by the government, he contended, was a long, complicated, and flimsy chain.

AROUND WORD "NONE"—What he had done, the general secretary of the Communist party in the United States asserted, was merely to return to his own country on his own passport after travels abroad in 1937 and 1938.

Browder had traveled in foreign lands previously on passports issued in the names of Nicholas Dozenberg, George Morris and Albert Henry Richards and in applying for a passport in his own name, according to the prosecution, had written "none" in reply to a question asking where his "last passport" was obtained.

Browder argued that the word "none" meant simply that no passport was being attached for cancellation. It did not mean, he declared, that he had never before received a passport.

CRUX OF CASE

Both he and Battle had contended from the start of the trial last Wednesday that the word "none" was the crux of the government's case, and have insisted that the prosecution has dealt only with the issuance of a prior passport and not with submittal of one for cancellation.

Browder began his summation after Battle vainly moved for dismissal of the indictment on the ground the government had failed to prove its charges. He offered no defense testimony.

Dolan, Quinn Back in Cells

Former City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan and his associate, J. Walter Quinn, were today ordered to leave the hospital quarters at the Charles Street Jail and return to regular jail cells.

Sheriff Frederick R. Sullivan ordered the transfer following receipt of a report from Dr. John S. Kelley, newly-appointed jail physician, who yesterday conducted a physical examination of Dolan and Quinn at the sheriff's request.

The examination and transfer back to jail cells came quickly after Sheriff Sullivan had received the Lyman report of conditions at the jail.

Hold Former Malden Probation Officer

In the same courtroom where until two weeks ago he was on duty daily as probation officer, George C. MacKinnon, Jr., of Malden, was arraigned today charged with larceny of $700 from court funds under his control.

He pleaded not guilty before Judge Elbridge G. Davis, in Malden District Court and was released in $1000 bonds for hearing Feb. 7.

MacKinnon resigned from his probation officer's post two weeks ago, saying at the time it was because of poor health. He was arrested Saturday night on two warrants charging him with larceny.

Ickes Takes Hand In Quabbin Probe

In a speedy followup of charges of fraud against Massachusetts, contained in a recommendation for a $285,000 settlement of a $400,000 suit brought by a Philadelphia contracting company, John Horan, chief investigator for the Public Works Administration, arrived here today from Washington to complete a government probe of the $65,000,000 Quabbin reservoir project.

The recommendation against the State was made by Judge F. DeLano Putnam, chief justice of Boston municipal court, but who sat as master on the contractor's suit against Massachusetts.

UNDER PROBE SINCE AUGUST

It was revealed today that on direct assignment by Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes, Horan has had two government agents investigating the Quabbin situation ever since last August.

The government probe was the direct result of testimony given by Eugene C. Hultman, chairman of the Metropolitan District Commission when he appeared before the legislative ways and means committee. At that time he testified a former governor had requested him to place a certain engineer on the Quabbin job.

Horan, whose job it is to check all PWA jobs for contracts, prices and labor used on jobs where government money is spent today will probably confer with Judge Putnam as the result of the charges that the state had committed fraud on a contract with Johnson Company, of Philadelphia, which had sued for recovery of $400,000.

FALSE REPORT CHARGED

Already the government agents have talked with more than a score of state officials who have been familiar with the Quabbin job since 1934. Among those with whom the agents have talked are two former governors.

It was learned today that when the federal government first started its checkup the Quabbin dam contracts and the action of high state officials in connection with those contracts, Horan's assistants also conferred with Governor Saltonstall.

It was alleged in the Johnson Company suit that state engineers had given the firm false reports on borings which were made as a necessary part of a survey before bids were made for the work to be done there.

J. Burke Sullivan, assistant attorney-general who conducted the state's defense, contended the contractors should have made their own survey and borings before making their bid.

Atty. Francis T. Lesby, representing the contractor, charged the late Frank E. Winsor, chief engineer of the Metropolitan District Commission had deliberately furnished false reports.

As a result the contractors found bed rock, where they expected to find sand and had to resort to blasting where they had figured on being able to remove some 2,000,000 yards of filling with steam shovels.

Winsor died of a heart attack a year ago as he was on the witness stand during a hearing.

KIDNAP VICTIM IS SUICIDE

MARY McELROY Takes Own Life

Sent to Prison For 3 Years in $31,000 Theft

After a plea that he had stolen $31,000 from the firm for which he was an office manager, "because he was blackmailed by a Boston racketeer," Albert Hanson, 40, Cushing st., Wollaston, was sentenced to three to five years at State Prison today.

Arraigned before Judge Harold P. Williams, in Suffolk Superior Court, Hanson pleaded guilty and, acting as his own counsel, pleaded for leniency. He said several years ago he had endorsed a $1500 check, was unable to pay, and had been blackmailed ever since by the racketeer, who threatened to have him indicted.

An effort to recoup by betting on horse races followed until, according to a firm official, his pilferings had amounted to $80,000. The indictments against him, however, charged he had forged endorsements and stolen $31,000.

His wife and a minister asked leniency for him and even Atty. Francis P. Garland, representing the Dun & Bradstreet organization, Hanson's employers, spoke in his favor.

"He is a weak man, Your Honor, but not vicious," said Garland.

Ends Life Grieving For Her Kidnapers

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 22 (AP)—Crushed by the death of her father and brooding over the punishment of the men who kidnaped her, Miss Mary McElroy, daughter of Kansas City's ousted City Manager, shot herself in the head. Her maid found the body, a small pistol nearby.

H. F. McElroy had been both father and mother to his daughter and son. Their mother died when they were babies, and McElroy brought them up, dressed them, bathed them, supervised their education.

Mary McElroy, slender 32-year-old brunet had seen her father die after former Mayor Bryce B. Smith moved him and other Pendergast organization men out of office last spring.

A .25 caliber pistol on the floor and powder burns on her right hand, Miss McElroy left a note, which said:

"My four kidnapers are probably the only people on earth who don't consider me an utter fool.

"You have your death penalty now—so—please—give them a chance."

Four men kidnaped Miss McElroy from her bath, May 27, 1933. They chained her in a house near Shawnee, Kas., for nearly 30 hours. They asked $50,000 ransom, but her father paid $30,000.

Three of the men were apprehended and convicted. Walter McGee was sentenced to the gallows but Miss McElroy herself appealed to Guy B. Park, then governor, and Park commuted his sentence to life imprisonment, the same as imposed on his brother, George.

Clarence Click, who lived in the farmhouse, was sentenced to eight years but was released in 1938.

Devoting herself to remaking them into "normal, acceptable citizens," Miss McElroy visited them in prison, got them interested in studying high school subjects, took them books, cigarettes and candy.

"The McGee brothers' lips trembled when they were told of Miss McElroy's death.

"I wouldn't have felt the loss of my own sister more," said George. "...She was very good to us."

Walter replied:

"The day we got her she acted like she had known us all her life. She told us she was our friend but that she didn't like our racket."

"I asked her if she ever saw me at a dance if she would dance with me," she answered: "Why certainly."

"Yes, and call the cops at the same time," I said.

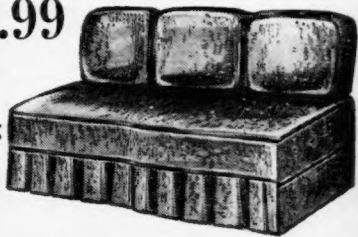

"No, I wouldn't do that," she said. "I'm your friend."

President, Senators Bow at Borah Bier

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (A.P.)—Leaders of the government heaved for more than three decades joined today in a solemn state funeral for the Senate's "great oppositionist," William E. Borah.

President Roosevelt sat silently in front of Borah's gray steel casket in the vault of the chamber which had closed for year after year to the military claque of the Idaho senator.

Members of the Supreme Court, the Chief and the diplomatic corps were seated nearby. Senators and Representatives occupied the remainder of the floor space. Mrs. Roosevelt was seated in the diplomatic gallery.

Borah's desk toward the rear of the chamber—the one he had used for years—was left vacant. A spray of dark red roses rested on its mahogany top.

Flowers were banded about the casket. There were pink carnations from President and Mrs. Roosevelt, and a wreath of white carnations from the Senate itself. Publisher William Randolph Hearst sent a wreath of gardenias and lilies.

The Simple Episcopal funeral service was conducted by the Rev. Ze Barney Phillips, Senate chaplain, assisted by the Rev. James Shera Montgomery, House chaplain.

GALLERIES PACKED

The Senate convened at 12:15 p. m. and after a prayer by Dr. Phillips suspended business while the mourning guests were escorted to their seats.

A special gallery was reserved for more than 120 Idaho citizens. The public galleries were packed, and many persons stood in the doorway. There was not a sound in the chamber as Dr. Phillips began the service.

Mrs. Borah—the Senator's beloved "Mary"—was seated in the Senate lobby just outside the chamber.

Miss Cora Rubin, Borah's secretary for more than 30 years, and Miss Grace Hileman, the Senator's personal secretary for 20 years, were with her.

BRIEF SERVICE

The brief Episcopal service was preceded by a solo—"Lead Kindly Light"—by Henrietta Bagger Plum. "I am the resurrection and the life, saith the Lord," intoned the Rev. James Shera Montgomery,

KISS . . . CUT—Hollywood announces screen kisses will be shorter in 1940 . . . with kisses by Vivien Leigh cut down to 10 feet or less. Because, says Director Mervyn Leroy, "red-heads can get more wallop in 10 feet than most actresses in 20."

chaplain of the House. "He that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live; and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die . . ."

The chaplain then read the lesson from the fourteenth chapter of St. John and the eight chapter of Romans.

The oft notes of "Abide With Me," sung by Mrs. Plum, and prayer concluded the ceremony.

Mr. Roosevelt sat with bowed head during the service, his hands folded in his lap.

SERVICES IN IDAHO

Chesley W. Jurney, Senate sergeant-at-arms, announced today the following arrangements for the Boise, Idaho, funeral services Thursday.

The body, accompanied by a congressional committee, will leave Washington at 6:10 p. m. today and will arrive in Chicago at 8:50 a. m. tomorrow.

The funeral train will leave Chicago at 11:35 a. m. tomorrow and arrive in Boise at 7:23 a. m. Thursday.

Vets Aid F. D. Birthday Ball

The American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars today notified Louis F. Capelle of the President's Birthday Ball committee, of their full co-operation in the infantile paralysis drive and pledged the greatest military event ever witnessed in Boston at the Boston Garden next Monday night.

At the same time Mayor Tobin, honorary chairman, and Postmaster Peter F. Tague, chairman of the ball committee, announced that the navy yard employees' contribution this year is represented by a check for $1500.

Fire Commissioner William Arthur Reilly had earlier announced that Boston's fire-fighters had subscribed 100 per cent in the fight to combat the dread disease.

BLAME YOUR LIVER IF—

If your liver doesn't secrete 20 to 30 ounces of bile every day into your intestines—constipation with its headaches, mental dullness and that "half-alive" feeling often result. So you see how important it is to keep bile flowing freely. And what finer aid could one desire than Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, used so successfully for years by Dr. F. M. Edwards for treating his patients for constipation and sluggish liver bile.

Olive Tablets are unsurpassed in effectiveness because they stimulate liver bile to help digest fatty foods, they tone up muscular intestinal action, at the same time help elimination. Being purely vegetable, Olive Tablets are wonderful! Test their supreme goodness TONIGHT! 15¢, 30¢, 60¢. All drugstores.

HUB DRIVE FOR NEEDY ON TODAY

The Community Fund quota for the offices of Governor Saltonstall and Lieutenant-Governor Cahill was exceeded today when State Treasurer William E. Huoley reported the pledges had been completed and represented 109.4 per cent.

Boston's annual drive to raise $4,605,000 in behalf of the needy, ill and discouraged will be officially launched tonight in Mechanics Hall, where more than 6000 officials, volunteer workers and friends will assemble for the send-off.

Prior to this formal opening, well known men in the field of sport did their part today at a gathering at the Boston Fruit and Produce Exchange.

Included among the speakers were the former heavyweight boxing champion, Gene Tunney, "Dit" Clapper, defense man of the Boston Bruins, Art Ross, hockey club manager, and Neal O'Hara, columnist.

Baering Down On the News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

We will send the Finns some agricultural implements that a farmer never saw.

That's just the way of getting around wars that have never been decided and invasions that are rolling them.

We still are puzzled by certain actions in Europe and Asia. We know who's throwing the snowballs. But we don't know who's rolling them.

P. S.—Among those agricultural implements is a whiffle-tree that will kill a boss at 12 miles.

SEVEN SHIPS SUNK IN NEW NAZ DRIVE

LONDON, Jan. 22 (AP)—Four British ships, one of them a sleek destroyer, were sent to the bottom in a week-end shipping losses.

Chinese Tighten Grip On Canton

HONGKONG, Jan. 22 (AP)—Heavy snowstorms sweeping central China and milder weather along the south China coast were dominant factors today in the Chinese-Japanese war.

Favored by mild weather, forces passing Canton, south China metropolis, were said by Chinese dispatches to be tightening their lines against the Japanese.

Military sources reported a stream of several thousand wounded Japanese soldiers had poured into Canton over the week-end, "taxing the capacity of practically all the hospitals there."

China to Protest Italy's Stand

ROME, Jan. 22 (AP)—Foreign observers predicted today the central Chinese government would lodge a quick protest against Italy's virtual recognition of a Japanese-controlled government for conquered territory in China before it is organized.

Felicitations to the projected regime were conveyed in a telegram to Wang Ching-wei, whom the Japanese have designated as government head.

O. K. Dies Probe For Another Year

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (AP)—The House rules committee, after a brief but stormy hearing and debate, unanimously approved and sent to the House today legislation to continue the Dies committee on un-American activities for another year.

Administration leaders previously had agreed that the measure would be called up for passage tomorrow. The committee rejected pleas of Representatives Dempsey (D., N. M.) and Casey (D., Mass.) of the Dies group that the legislation be amended to provide certain restrictions on procedure of the investigators.

Crashes Put Them In Same Hospital

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 21 (AP)—Mrs. John Stevens, 43, and Mrs. Edward Mazzoni, 39, friends and neighbors for years, belonged to the same church, visited back and forth, and exchanged recipes.

Grave injuries suffered in two widely separated automobile accidents at almost the same hour today put them in the same hospital. Their husbands also were injured, although not so seriously.

ACHING CHEST COLDS

Need More Than "Just Salve" To Relieve DISTRESS!

To quickly relieve chest cold misery and muscular aches and pains due to cold—it takes MORE than "just a salve"—you need a warming, soothing "counter-irritant" like good old reliable Musterole—used by millions for over 30 years. Musterole penetrates the outer layers of the skin and helps break up local congestion and pain. 3 strengths: Regular, Children's (mild) and Extra Strong, 40¢.

MUSTEROLE

Better Than A Mustard Plaster.

Four neutral victims also added to the heavy toll of men and ships.

Sinking of the destroyer Grenville, 1485-ton flotilla leader, "by a mine or torpedo" was announced by the admiralty.

The admiralty said 118 officers and men have been saved, but "eight are known to have been killed and 73 are missing and must be presumed to have lost their lives."

Besides the Grenville, grief to these eight other ships became known during the week-end:

The 1569-ton Norwegian steamer Mauria was presumed lost when a naval vessel today brought the bodies of two men who were believed members of her crew into port.

The 7607-ton British tanker Caroni sank suddenly after an unexplained explosion when she was only 20 minutes out on a trial run. Her crew of 55 was saved, but many were injured severely.

The British steamer Protesilaus, 9577 tons, sank yesterday after striking a mine off the west coast of England. A rescue vessel brought her crew of 50 ashore.

The 1086-ton British steamer Ferryhill sank apparently after striking a mine off the northeast coast. Two survivors were landed, but 12 of her crew were believed lost.

The sinking of the 1050-ton Estonian steamer Nautic, Saturday, off the Shetland islands was confirmed. Her crew was rescued.

The 1173-ton Swedish steamer Fiandria went down after striking two mines, and 17 of her crew were reported lost.

U.S. Asks Japan Free I.N.S. Man

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22 (INS)—The State Department today had launched efforts to obtain the speedy release from unexplained detention by the Tokyo police of James R. Young, chief of the International News Service staff in Japan.

A dispatch signed by Secretary Hull and addressed to Joseph C. Crew, American ambassador to Japan, advised the envoy of Young's arrest and said the department assumed the embassy was doing everything necessary to have him freed.

Meantime, Bunshiro Suzuki, editor of the influential Japanese newspaper, Tokyo Asahi, a Washington visitor and recent caller on Hull, was understood to have cabled Tokyo friends on Young's behalf.

Ex-Kaiser's Health Reported Excellent

LONDON, Jan. 22 (INS)—Former Kaiser Wilhelm of Germany is in excellent health and motored through the Netherlands countryside yesterday, a Reuter's dispatch from Dootn stated today.

This report followed a dispatch to the London Daily Mail stating anxiety was felt regarding the ex-Kaiser's health and that he was suffering from influenza and confined to his room.

MILLION FINN AID

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—The Finnish relief fund reached the $1,000,000 mark today.

Hit the Jack-Pot

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (INS)—Five bandits, one bearing a machine gun, broke up a poker game in the cigar store of Leon Manierre, Negro, and departed with a 400-pound safe containing $750. Manierre complained to police the bandits also took $54 in the poker pot.

Gandhi Will Compromise on India

BOMBAY, Jan. 22 (AP)—Mohandas K. Gandhi has indicated that he favors an "honorable compromise" with Britain over Indian demands for independence.

The spiritual and political leader of millions of Hindus made this pronouncement as reports circulated that he had arranged a conference with India's British viceroy, Lord Linlithgow, for the first week in February.

Added importance was given to Gandhi's indication of a compromise by his order to Rajendra Prasad, president of the Congress party, that there should be no labor strikes to augment "Independence Day" demonstrations Jan. 26.

Gandhi wrote in his weekly newspaper that a Jan. 11th speech by Lord Linlithgow "seems to contain germs of a settlement" of Indian demands for independence.

'LION OF IDAHO' WAS OF HUMBLE ORIGIN

This is the second installment of the life story of the late Senator William E. Borah, who rose from an humble beginning to a position of great eminence in national and world affairs. The first installment appeared in yesterday's Boston Sunday Advertiser.

The book, copyrighted by Longmans, Green & Co. is written in the present tense because Sen. Borah was still living when the volume was completed.

By PROF. CLAUDIUS O. JOHNSON
Of Washington State University

NEW YORK, Jan. 22—There is nothing of the "up Boston way on Beacon street" in the ancestry of United States Sen. William Edgar Borah. The Senator himself has no interest in his genealogy beyond a pleasant insistence that the Borahs are of plebeian stock.

He thinks the public has no interest in the Borah family and none in his early life. But the Borahs were more than ordinary people, and one may disagree with the Senator concerning the public's interest in his background.

The original Borahs were Bohemians. There is a story that one was king of Bohemia. Having lost his throne in a revolution, he went to a German state, then to France, where one of his daughters married a French prince.

But the former king and his family soon returned to Germany, probably Bavaria, and established permanent residence there. We know that Martin Luther met Katharina von Borah in a convent and that she became his second wife. This is about all the information—authentic and otherwise—that we have on the Borahs in Europe.

THREE BORAH BROTHERS

About 1760, three Borah brothers came to America and settled in Lancaster County, Pennsylvania. Two sides with the patriots in the Revolution. One, the "irreconcilable," aligned himself with the Tories, and he returned to the Old Country after the war. To one of the patriot brothers a son, Jacob, was born in 1765. This great-grandfather of William E. Borah, young as he was, served two separate enlistments in the Revolution.

Jacob Borah had eight sons. All of them moved to Butler County, Kentucky, about 1810. On one of the Borah farms the little town of "Borah" developed, and a post office was established there.

A century later the town ceased to be, and in 1913 the post office was abolished. But near the head of the tongue of land formed by a horseshoe bend of the Green river, nine miles north of Morgantown and eight miles south of Beaver Dam, still sits Borah's Ferry, named for the grandfather and great-uncles of the Senator, who some critics say, goes like the ferry from side to side.

William N. Borah married Elizabeth West, a native Indiana, who bore him six daughters and four sons.

The father of William E. Borah was a devout Christian. The Senator, himself very familiar with the scriptures, says he has never known a man who knew the Bible as thoroughly as his father did. The elder Borah was a leader in the Presbyterian church, but, despite repeated printed statements to the contrary, he never preached.

There was a breadth of tolerance and a nobility of spirit about the patriarch of the Borah household which made a lasting impression upon his children. That it has influenced the public career of Senator Borah there is not the slightest doubt.

DEPLORED BIGOTRY

The Senator's private correspondence touching matters of religious bigotry, race hatreds, and similar subjects in which passion and prejudice play a large part is replete with references to his father and the lessons in Christian charity learned from his example.

Though the parents of William E. Borah had no education beyond that afforded by the common schools of the day, they wanted to give their children wider educational opportunities. The Borah

FIRST NIGHT

OH MOTHER, IT WAS JUST WONDERFUL. THE AUDIENCE WENT WILD AND OUR ENGAGEMENT IS ALL SET. I OWE IT ALL TO YOU.

MID-NIGHT AT HOME

YOU DON'T OWE ME ANYTHING. YOU OWE IT ALL TO CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE—
Without Calomel—And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Ready to Go
The liver should pour out two pints of liquid bile into your bowels daily. If this bile is not flowing freely, your food may not digest. It may just decay in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You get constipated. You feel sour, sunk and the world looks pink. It takes these good, old, Carter's Little Liver Pills to get these two pints of bile flowing freely to make you feel "up and up." Amazing in making bile flow freely. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills by name. Use only the Stubbins' refuse anything else.

Law Career Led Borah To Fame

children received their first training at Tom's Prairie public school, a few miles from the Borah farm.

Having absorbed what Tom's Prairie school had to offer, Will was sent to Enfield College (in reality only an academy), a Cumberland Presbyterian institution some 25 miles south of Fairfield. Borah remained at Enfield only one year and did not complete the preparatory course.

But in these days he was thinking very much of the law. That had been his consuming ambition from the time he was old enough to know something of a lawyer's business. Partly for financial reasons and partly because he did not want his son to be a lawyer, the father did not send Will back to school the following year.

AIDED BY SISTER

The answer to Will's prayer for more schooling came from Lyons, Kan. One of his older sisters, Mrs. A. M. Lasley, whose husband was a lawyer, lived there. They invited Will to come to Lyons and he left Fairfield with high hopes.

Receiving some help from his sister and earning some money at odd jobs, Will Borah spent a year in the public school at Lyons. After this he taught a country school for a year or so, never forgetting his ambition to become a lawyer and being so engrossed in reading history and law that he felt in later years he not put as much energy into his teaching as he should.

On Sept. 11, 1885, the Courier of the University of Kansas announced that W. E. Borah of Lyons would enter a university, and concluded its brief line with "he will be a leading man."

Borah left the university in the early spring of 1887, being threatened with tuberculosis. He soon regained his strength, but he never returned to the university except for a brief visit the next year. The uncompleted freshman year at the university marks his farthest advance toward a formal education. He is largely self-educated.

PASSED BAR

In January, 1888, the University Review carried the news item that "W. E. Borah, now a prosperous attorney at Lyons, spent several days with the Betas last week." The "attorney" announcement was no exaggeration, for Borah had read law in the office of his brother-in-law, A. M. Lasley, and had met the easy requirements for admission to the bar. He had made a special study of evidence, hoping to become a great trial lawyer.

The practice of law did not take Borah from his reading. He not only continued his study of law, but he continued to read the works of the great masters in history, government, and literature, including Latin literature in the original. He liked to prepare and deliver orations.

Borah had the idea that Seattle, Washington, then a small city, would be a good place in which to locate. The mayor of Lyons, the one who had appointed Borah city attorney and had remained keenly interested in his progress, suggested that he stop at Boise, Idaho.

The mayor had a relative in Boise who wrote glowing accounts of developments in that city. In the fall of 1890, a few months after Idaho had been admitted to the Union, Borah started West, feeling his way along, uncertain as to where he would locate.

Lawyers and judges all over Idaho emphasize the fact that Borah's power as an advocate was equaled by his skill as an office lawyer, that he was what few lawyers are—what the English would call both barrister and solicitor. They emphasize another fact, that Borah, like all other successful lawyers, was a fighter. They speak further of his wonderful briefs, models of lucid English. They say he was, and is, sound on the Constitution, that he would make a great justice in the Supreme Court of the United States.

Another installment of the life of "The Lion of Idaho" will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American.

cluding a chauffeur for Martin Hays, former Massachusetts legislator, appeared at the Federal building today to testify before the special federal grand jury probing alleged tax evasions totaling $250,000 by five officials of the Wonderland dog track at Revere.

Today's probe marked the second of its kind within a week, and will inquire specifically into the incomes of five persons connected with the Bay State Greyhound Ass'n, Inc., which operates the Wonderland dog racing track.

First witness at today's session was George Leamy, special agent of the Intelligence Unit of the Treasury Department.

Others called were: Katherine M. O'Neil of Boston, Mass.; Brighton; Lillian A. Ahern of Peabody; Margaret J. Garvin of Fairbank st., Brighton; Eleanor F. Schayer of Lynnwood st., Medford; Julia F. Kelley of Broadway, South Boston; Joseph J. Twichell of Belmont st., Newton.

Paul A. Burns of Lynnwood st., Medford; Edward J. Padden of Shafter st., Dorchester; Abraham Levinsky of Beach st., Revere; Howard T. Cresse of Governor ave., Medford; and Walter B. Moynahan and brother, John F. Moynahan of Atlantic ave., Winthrop.

Doris S. Gordon of Arlington st., Chestnut Hill, has also been subpoenaed to testify.

1 DEAD, 5 HURT IN AUTO PATH

TAUNTON, Jan. 22.—One boy is dead, two others are in critical condition, three girls narrowly missed serious injury when they were mowed down by an automobile as they walked along the highway in Taunton early today.

Arthur Costa, 32, operator of the car, was held in $1000 when he pleaded not guilty to driving negligently. He told police he fell asleep at the wheel.

The dead boy is George Gornall, 17.

At Morton Hospital Edwin J. Higgenbotham, 21; George Jackson, 16, are near death.

At the same hospital Priscilla West, 16, Donic Vickedy, 17, and Helen Herbert, 16, were all treated for minor injuries.

The young people were walking to their homes when the accident occurred. They had been riding in an auto which had broken down.

Costa's case was continued to Feb. 5.

years the authorities of our government.

"We all have seen in his papers in the last few days of the threat of a group of callow youths calling themselves a front, charged with plotting the overthrow of the government."

UNAFRAID OF FINES

"Is there any comparison between such a group, however serious, and these sneaking racketeers who milk the community of its savings and undermine every semblance of respect for its law and institutions?"

"The take of this group, $3,000,000 a year, could do a lot toward taking over the whole welfare cost of the city of Boston."

"And, your honor, these men aren't afraid of a fine, however big. There's one thing they fear—jail."

"Your honor, I ask that every defendant here who can be shown to have played a substantial part in this racket be given a jail sentence."

That is the only way we can show these men that the law is bigger than the racket; that there is something that even $347,000 a month cannot fix."

MOTIONS DENIED

Subsequently, Atty. Wendell P. Murray, counsel for Joseph Hotze, filed two motions attacking two of the four indictments against his client—though Hotze had already pleaded guilty to them but Judge Fosick denied them.

Murray then called on Dr. Edward M. Hodgkins of Bay State rd., Back Bay, who testified that Hotze was suffering from chronic nephritis, and that confinement in jail would be detrimental to him.

2 Shoe Firms Fined $7000

Fines totaling $7000 were levied against the Kichelen and Allied Mitchell Shoe Cos. on charges of violating the federal wage and hour laws, under a decision handed down by Judge John A. Peters in Portland, Me., federal court today, it was announced in Boston.

Kelly in Race for Governor

chusetts was apparent in 1934 when he polled more votes in many sections than ex-Governors Charles F. Hurley and James M. Curley.

Regarding the present Republican governor, Kelly said:

"Two days before retiring as lieutenant-governor, I asked the citizens of Massachusetts to co-operate with Governor-elect Saltonstall, and I publicly stated at that time through the newspapers and over the radio:

"Governor Saltonstall keeps his 1938 campaign promises, of opportunity for the young, security for the aged, not to impose any new taxes, show a fair attitude toward labor, and not fire state employees, that I would not be a candidate for governor in 1940.

WILL BE CANDIDATE

"I further stated if Governor Saltonstall failed to keep these campaign promises to the people, I would feel duty bound to once again oppose him.

"Every fair-minded person knows that Governor Saltonstall has not kept his 1938 campaign promises. There is no excuse for him, because the Republican Party is in full control of all branches of State government.

"Accordingly, I announce my candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor with every confidence that the Democratic citizens of the Commonwealth will place in my hands their mandate to go forward, take control from the Republican administration on Beacon Hill, and bring our State government back into the hands of the people."

"Of his candidacy he added: "In 1936, after a vigorous and bitter primary campaign, I was nominated for Lieutenant-Governor, despite the powerful opposition of the so-called leaders and self-appointed bosses, who had attempted to dictate whom the people should vote for.

"In that campaign I took my cause to the Democratic citizens, and they not only nominated me for this office, but seven weeks later the people, Democrats, independents and liberal Republicans, with a record-breaking vote, elected me as their Lieutenant-Governor, over the hitherto undefeated Leverett Saltonstall, the present Governor."

Kelly pointed out that in the Democratic primary of 1936, a four man contest with a total of 510,000 Democratic votes cast, he received over 100,000 votes. In that contest he had two powerful opponents, one the then Governor Charles F. Hurley, and former Governor James M. Curley.

BLAMES TRAGEDY ON VOKE

Failure of Mayor Edward Voke of Chelsea to mete out just punishment to Patrolman John A. Price for gross and persistent violation of police regulations was direct cause of the triple shooting tragedy in the home of Police Sergeant Herbert J. Hannabury, State Senator Bernard Sullivan of Chelsea charged today.

He said Chief of Police Finn vainly demanded dismissal of Price from the force just six weeks before Price invaded the Hannabury home Saturday, shot to death Mrs. Hannabury and a 14-year-old daughter, Virginia, then was slain himself by Sergt. Hannabury.

FUNERALS TOMORROW

Sen. Sullivan's criticism of the mayor was contained in a public statement, released as plans for the funerals of the shooting victims were announced.

Services for Mrs. Hannabury and Virginia Hannabury will be held tomorrow morning from the home in Lambert ave., Chelsea, with solemn high mass of requiem at Our Lady of Grace Church, Chelsea. Burial will be in Wyoming Cemetery, Melrose.

The funeral of Patrolman Price will be from the home of his sister, Mrs. James Crotty, Walshe st., Winthrop. Burial will be in Malden.

CRITICIZES MAYOR VOKE

Censuring Mayor Voke for repeated leniency toward Price, State Sen. Sullivan said:

"Behind the stark horror of this tale of sheer murder lies another story of the failure of Mayor Voke to mete out just punishment to Patrolman Price and the mayor's failure in not even reporting Price's violations of the police manual to civil service authorities. If this had been done, it would never have allowed these horrible deaths."

Ice-Bound Harbors Hamper Shipping

Ice in rivers and harbors all along the New England coast hampered fishing fleets and commercial shipping today, with conditions reported most serious in many years.

Navigation was reported particularly hazardous in the vicinity of the Cape Cod canal, where buoys and other channel markers were either hidden by ice or were ripped from their moorings and carried out to sea.

The Merchants and Miners liner Alleghany was trapped temporarily in ice at the Buzzard's Bay mouth of the canal, her skipper, Capt. Archie Brooks reported.

ONLY 2 BUOYS VISIBLE

He said only two light buoys were visible in the channel, 12 were missing altogether and the remaining two were dim and ice-encrusted.

The Eastern Steamship liner Saint John on her voyage here from New York avoided the Cape Cod canal and took the outside passage around Provincetown because of ice in Buzzard's Bay.

At Nantucket more than 75 fishing vessels were trapped in harbor ice today. The ice was reported eight inches thick in many places. Singular conditions were reported in Scituate harbor and Plymouth harbor, with serious fish shortages in sight because of the scores of vessels frozen in.

KICKAPOO IN MAINE

An available coast guard vessel were pressed into duty as ice breakers.

At Fore River today was the coast guard tug, Razitan.

The coast guard patrol boat Harriet Lane was ice-breaking of Narragansett, and the regular coast guard ice breaker Kickapoo was in similar service in Maine waters.

The Coast Guard picket boat, AB-58, was assigned to keep Dorchester Bay clear to assist operations of divers seeking the bodies of three boys drowned there a week ago today.

With today's temperatures continuing below freezing and still colder weather predicted for tonight and tomorrow, Coast Guard officials were prepared for worse ice conditions yet, they admitted today.

Boston harbor was more nearly clear than most other New England ports.

Arraign Film Labor Czar on Tax Charge

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22 (INS)

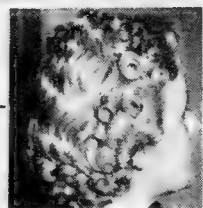

William Hoff, Hollywood labor leader czar, will be arraigned in Los Angeles today on charges he evaded payment of approximately $83,000 in income taxes over a period of two years.

If convicted of the charges, the defendant is liable to a maximum sentence of 10 years in prison and $20,000 in fines.

$400,000 Suit Based On F.D.'s Son Settled

The $400,000 suit brought by Cornelius J. Sheridan of Milton on the grounds that he induced James Roosevelt, son of the President, to head a Cambridge yeast concern has been settled out of court, it was learned today.

The suit, first entered in Middlesex Probate court, had been transferred to federal court in Boston. Sheridan, a former dry agent, brought the action against Frank J. Hale of Bellville, N. J., former United States agent in charge of alcohol permits in New York, and Harold Goldman of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., former United States attorney at New York.

The Milton man claimed Hale, in a conversation held with him in a Back Bay hotel, told him that Hale and Goldman intended to oust Samuel Brass, then president of the National Grain Yeast Corporation of Cambridge and Bellville, and replace him with someone "of social and business prestige."

For this, Sheridan said, he was to have been paid $300,000, which he sought to recover in the suit with $100,000 interest.

"Hale knew I had contact with Marguerite Leland of Somerville," Sheridan said, "and he promised me the money to influence Roosevelt to take the job, thus saving a $1,200,000 business." (Miss Leland is President Roosevelt's secretary.)

Roosevelt served as head of the company for four months in 1925, resigned because "of a difference of opinion with the trustees." Orville S. Poland, attorney for Sheridan, admitted today that the suit had been settled out of court, and that the action would be withdrawn, but declined to reveal the terms.

Dearest Anne:

Don't let me forget to tell you about the grand boudoir lamps I found—the tricky brushcomb—the darling new shoes. You'll get excellent service and prompt delivery from your furrier this time of the year—because it isn't his busiest season. Have you had your permanent? Do that this week!

High, High Wedgies for Street Wear, $2.98

You loved them when Clyde's first showed them for evening wear—now you'll go completely mad over them when you see Wedgies for street wear. They're such fun to wear—so different—so new—and so very comfortable. They're copied exactly from $12.00 and $15.00 shoes (even to the hole cut out of their high wedge heels). In black patent, black or brown suede. All sizes. Clyde's Shoe Store is at 455 Washington St. Mail orders 15c extra.

Why Be Gray?

There's no need for it! If your hair is gray (completely, partially, or just a strand here and there)—if it's dull or over-bleached, adding ten years to your appearance—you're the woman for whom Roux Oil Shampoo Tint is made. Have a treatment in the salon of L. Max, Jr., or send for a bottle for home use. It's easy to apply! Regular bottle $1.10—or a bottle TWICE as large for $1.65. In 18 glorious tones. Send a small sample of your hair for accurate color selection. Check, money order or C. O. D. L. MAX, JR., 145 Tremont St., Boston. Dev. 7069.

Fur Coats Restyled $17.50

With the expert workmanship of the Winter's Fur Shop! Yes! your old fur coats restyled to this season's fashion lines for $17.50 and this INCLUDES lining, Darling boleros or practical chubbie jackets fashioned from your out-of-date furs for $12.50—Capes $7.50. Extra skins additional—work guaranteed. Phone and they'll call at your home. Lib. 1021. WINTER'S FUR SHOP, 3 Winter St., 4th Floor, Boston. Open even. to 8.

Guess How Much! Hobnail Glass Boudoir Lamps Only $1.29 at Filene's

I'm sure you'll want at least ONE pair for your boudoir table. I made a note to remind you they'd be grand for very impressive (and not expensive) gifts—just right for nearly any dark corner you've been wanting to brighten up! Slim, attractive sticks of hobnail glass with gold colored mountings. They look like londa more than a mere $1.29—two for $2.50. The glass hobnails reflect the light ever so cheerily, you know. They're a graceful size that don't take up too much precious space. The shades are of paper parchment in yellow, green or pink—or plain white with colored bows. I felt pretty pleased with myself when I discovered them, for they're a grand buy and ONLY at Filene's. See them in the balcony of Filene's Gift Shop, Franklin and Hawley Street Building. Order by mail or phone Hubbard 4250 until 9 p. m.

McLania's $5 Wave-In-Oil. Created In A Bath of Beneficial Oils

Here's a permanent that gives health and life as well as beauty to your hair—beneficial to dry or oily hair—perfect if your hair is fine or usually difficult to wave. No baking—no chemical heat to this truly different permanent—without machinery or wires. Have your permanent in complete comfort—ACTUALLY you can walk around while your wave is being steamed. Frank, himself, will design a hair style JUST for you! McLania's Wave-In-Oil $5 with shampoo and wave. McLANIA'S BEAUTY SHOP, 187 Tremont St. Few doors from Keith Memorial. Hub. 6076. Open 9 a. m. to 7 p. m. Saturdays to 6.

"What Not" Shelves For This and That at Grants—25c

"What Not" Shelves have so many uses! Adorn them with gay little figures—hang them in a sunny spot for your favorite ivy—and they definitely give "atmosphere" to your room. You'll find them practical for odds and ends you like to have close at hand—perhaps for your favorite books—conveniently near your most comfortable chair. I've sketched one of four styles. You may choose corner brackets with two or three shelves—or brackets that hang flat against the wall with two or three shelves. 25c each. Walnut or Maple finish—made in the U. S. A. See them in the House Furnishing Department in the basement of W. T. GRANT CO., 395 Washington St. Mail orders 10c extra.

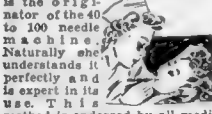

Harry's 3-Inch Hair Cut Elizabeth E. Gould

—Permanents
So easy to care for! Harry is a well known authority on permanents, waving and hair cutting! His Lanolin Oil or machineless permanents are marvelous for the hair. Complete with a new hair-dress it's $4 including hair cutting. End permanent $3 complete. The new short cut, shampoo and wave, $1. HARRY'S BEAUTY SHOP, 453 Washington St., Dexter Bldg., Rm. 817. Dev. 5047. Open Evenings.

I to 100 needles
Don't tweek! Unwanted hair may be removed safely and permanently by Miss Gould, who is the originator of the 40 to 100 needle machine. Naturally she understands it perfectly and is expert in its use. This method is endorsed by all medical research laboratories. Completely painless absolute privacy. ELIZABETH E. GOULD, 55 Temple Place, Rm. 811, Han. 0624.

4 Piece Bedroom Set $29.95

Here's a value! Four fine bedroom pieces of maple finish hardwood. Bed, dresser, chest and mirror. Sturdily built for long wear. Formerly $49.95—NOW $29.95! TULMAN FURNITURE CO., 154 Friend St.—on your way to the North Station. Lat. 0040.

Gowns $1

This is the last sale of the season of richly used gowns at Mendelsohn's. Some bridal and bridesmaids' gowns—all types of evening gowns—plenty of cruise clothes. This is a real sacrifice sale to make room for Spring stock. Prices start at $1—some slightly higher. Mendelsohn's rent and sell new and used bridal outfit—wraps—evening gowns. Also gowns made to order for rent or sale. Mendelsohn's, 98 Temple Place and 35 Lowell St.

News! Brushkomb Is Now Only $1 at Jordan's—I Know You'll Want One

Brushkomb is one of those marvelous ideas that someone should have thought of ages ago! Pretty soon you'll be wondering how you EVER got along without one. It's a comb and brush in one—in a handy case. This one clever gadget brushes, combs, and gently stimulates the scalp—keeping your hair so sleek, your curls so trim, that you'll practically always look as if you just popped out of the hairdresser's! This same Brushkomb was introduced at $3.50—just a short time ago. It was a big hit right away and the increased production made the new low price of $1 possible. Case and comb in Lustrous in Green, Cream, Shell and Red. You'll be glad that it's compact enough to tuck in your bag for daytime primping. See it in the Jordan Marsh Company Perfume Department, Street Floor—Main Store. Order by mail or phone Hubbard 2700 until 10 p. m. (Except Sundays.)

Your Old Fur Coat Made Like New $20

The New Boxy Bolero Jackets, $12.50

By Edward's, of course, that talented furrier with a gift for making old worn furs look like new! Take a tip—don't trust your furs to inexperienced hands. Bring them to an expert Furrier such as Edward's. He employs only expert union furriers. He has had years of experience and knows Furs from A to Z. He will completely restyle your old Fur Coat for $20. Or if you prefer a smart Fur Cape made from your old furs, he will make an adorable one, with flattering lines, for $7.50. Fur coats relined, material included, $4. Or you may have a new boxy Bolero Jacket, made from your old furs, for $12.50, lining included. THE EDWARD'S FUR SHOP IS ON THE 2ND FLOOR, AT 168 TREMONT STREET. Est. 16 Years. Dev. 9333. Will gladly call at your home.

Have a "Crowning Glory" Hairdress

—An Yvonne Permanent for $5.95. Was I pleased when I heard Yvonne had been chosen to design the hair styles for the Miss Crowning Glory contest sponsored by the Hotel Essex? I'll tell you more about the contest later—today I've sketched one of the charming entrants. You may have this style or Madame Yvonne, herself, will design one just for you! The basis of a new culture is, of course, a new permanent—Yvonne's Steam Oil Permanent (this does your hair so much good!) is now only $5.95. Her famous Padol Permanent (especially good for thin, dry or dyed hair) special at $6.50! Both permanents INCLUDE cut, shampoo and complete restyling. YVONNE BEAUTY STUDIO, 127 Tremont St., 2nd Floor. (Opposite Park St.) Hub. 0646. Open 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Fur Coats Remodeled $17.50

By Jacques—that expert furrier—it's something to rave about! This price includes lining! He will make you a fur cape, from your old fur coat, for $7.50, or a darling new fur jacket—absolutely 1940, $12.50 (linings included). Additional skin extra. He will gladly call at your home. Jacques Fur Shop, 177 Tremont St. HUB. 5159.

Elizabeth G. Sparkes Electric Needle Specialist I to 100 Needles

Is especially recommended by physicians because of her experience of over 22 years. Superfluous hair can be removed safely, permanently and painlessly by Miss Sparkes' 40 needle machine only one of its kind in Boston. Single or multiple needle method. Each hair is removed by the roots so that it can never return. Free consultation. MISS SPARKES, 120 Tremont St., Room 333, HAN. 7592.

THIS COUNTRY, having virtually severed its relations with Nazi Germany, continues to maintain relations with Nazi Germany's ally—Soviet Russia.

Months ago, our Ambassador to Germany was recalled, and the Hitler government promptly recalled its Ambassador.

However, our representation carries on in Moscow, and the Soviet Ambassador Oumansky remains in Washington.

Why should this be so?

If it was the right thing for us to break relations with Nazi Germany, why is it not the right thing to do with Communist Russia?

These questions are being asked in both Houses of Congress, and it does not seem possible that Congress would permit the questions to lapse without a reply.

In the lower house, Representative O'Toole, of New York, has introduced a resolution calling for immediate severance of relations with Russia.

This resolution, which has been sent to the House Foreign Relations Committee, charges that Soviet Russia has REPEATEDLY sent its agents of Communism into this country, in violation of its pledges.

In the upper house, Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, has introduced a different resolution—one requesting the President to inform the Senate whether or not Russia has "fulfilled obligations" set forth in 1933 in the Litvinov agreements by which this country formally recognized the Soviet government.

Inasmuch as the Senate, under the Constitution, shares in all treaty-making powers, there is no valid reason why the administration should not comply with the Vandenberg request.

In fact, Senator Pittman, of Nevada, the Democratic chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, has supported Mr. Vandenberg by suggesting that the State Department "comment" on the Michigan Senator's proposal.

THE LITVINOV AGREEMENT

for the recognition of Soviet Russia was entered into on November 16, 1933, at Washington in the form of letters exchanged between President Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinov, Soviet Commissar for Foreign Affairs, who came to this country for the purpose.

In these letters, Litvinov made several precisely stated promises.

In one of the letters, Litvinov declared that "it will be the FIXED POLICY of the government of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics":

"TO RESPECT SCRUPULOUSLY the indisputable rights of the United States to order its own life within its own jurisdiction in its own way and TO REFRAIN FROM INTERFERING IN ANY MANNER in the internal affairs of the United States."

Also:

"To refrain . . . from ANY act . . . having as its aim . . . the bringing about by force of a change in the POLITICAL or SOCIAL order of the whole or any part of the United States."

In the same letter, Soviet Russia further agreed:

"Not to permit the FORMATION or RESIDENCE on its territory of ANY organization or group—and to PREVENT THE ACTIVITY on its territory of ANY organization or group, or of REPRESENTATIVES of OFFICIALS of any organization or group—which has AS AN AIM the overthrow or PREPARATIONS for the overthrow of, or the bringing about by force of a change in, the political or social order of the whole or any part of the United States."

THAT PROMISE

with its accompanying language, meant to everybody in America that Soviet Russia agreed, as a part of the price of diplomatic recognition and friendly relations, no longer to permit the Communist International to carry on its subversive activities here, directly or indirectly, and if it did so carry on, to banish the Communist International from Russia.

Of course that promise has not been kept.

In 1935—two years after the Litvinov agreement was made with the President—the Communist International held its Seventh Congress at Moscow, and a delegate at that Congress was Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party of the United States.

To this very day, the Communist party proclaims itself, in its official organ, as "affiliated" with the Communist International—and the Communist International itself exists solely by sufferance of the Soviet government.

The Communist excuse is that the Communist party and the Communist International do not teach or advocate the overthrow of established governments by "force or violence."

That excuse will not fool members of Congress.

Those members of Congress who want our recognition of Soviet Russia withdrawn are absolutely right—if for no other reason, because Russia has forfeited any claim to further "recognition" by her flagrant violation of the solemn promises upon which that recognition was given.

Daddy's Sweetheart

SO DADDY has a sweetheart, a dimpled little Miss . . . who steals up when his back is turned and smacks him with a kiss . . . who flirts with him audaciously and rumples up his hair . . . and snuggles down beside him in his ample easy chair . . . who runs to meet him open-armed along the garden path . . . and who mischievously asks him to inspect her in her bath.

She constantly reminds him of a lass he used to know . . . who's darning stockings by the fire, her eyes with love aglow.

Paul T. Gilbert.

Human Side of News -3- By EDWIN C. HILL

FREDERICK L. SCHUMAN, Woodrow Wilson Professor of Political Science at Williams College, has scored what appears to this department to be the highest percentage of hits in world prophecy during the last ten years.

The first edition of his book, "International Politics," published in 1933, predicted that the triumph of German Fascism would doom the League of Nations and bring about a new balance of power; that world disarmament would prove futile and would be abandoned; that the gold standard would be swept away in several countries, and that forces making for international conflict would drive the nations inexorably to war.

The second edition of the same book, amplified and brought down to date, was published in 1937. It set forth a clear and precise picture of the German aggression and the failure of British "appeasement," and found a new world conflict inevitable in the near future.

One thing Mr. Schuman missed. He did not foresee the working alliance between Hitler and Stalin.

In the concluding chapter of the latest edition, he voices a fervent plea to America to keep out of the European chaos, all the more impressive because of the scholarly context of his book, and

HITLER'S SOLDIERS MARCHING INTO POLAND
Williams College Professor Predicted Aggression

the unquestioned weight and validity of his patiently developed theme.

Dr. Schuman wrote these arresting words:

"The clash of the powers which will unleash disaster is not an event of the far future. It is already under way. Its first phase assumed the form of open violence in 1914.

"Its second phase, certain to be far more complex, prolonged and destructive, assumed the form of open violence in 1931.

"The much dreaded 'next war' has long since begun, albeit the fighting thus far has not been against the great powers, and has been scattered widely in preliminary skirmishes all over the globe.

"In the West, the American Republic may conceivably resist being drawn into the maelstrom. It can no longer promote peace and preserve security by collaboration with the European democracies. Their feeble leaders have betrayed the cause.

"It cannot pursue power and profit over the globe without being burned in the European conflagration or crossing swords with Japan in the Pacific.

"American soldiers may fall again in Europe. American soldiers may come back into port, wounded and broken on the bloody hulks of once proud battleships, pounded to wreckage in remote combats on the western seas."

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt -3- -3- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22—Visitors come and go so quickly in the White House these days that I hardly have time to enjoy them, but it was a great pleasure to have Miss Fannie Hurst for a night.

Mr. and Mrs. Howland Davis of New York City, came down for the departmental reception. The heads of various departments who have not already come with other groups for dinner, dined with us before the reception.

In some cases, we greeted the same people three times, once when they arrived for dinner, once when we met the Cabinet before proceeding to the reception room previous to the reception itself, and once when they came through the line as heads of their departments. Each time we tried to look as though we had not parted five minutes before.

I ATTENDED, for an hour, a reception given at the Congressional club, and it was pleasant to see many familiar faces. Before that, I spent two hours with some of the leading educators of the country, and I hope I learned much about the problems facing those who are trying to meet the situation of rapidly mounting numbers of young people in high school.

Basically, our trouble is inadequate money to pay for properly trained teachers and to divide the young people as they should be divided for their best interests. There is a wide variety of capacity which necessitates a wider variety of occupations and opportunity as well as academic teaching.

FANNIE HURST
White House Visitor

We have always believed in this country that education was the basis of our democracy, and I still believe that is true. We have certainly not as yet faced the duty of the nation, in view of the entirely new problem which is before us today. Great numbers of young people who, in other times, would have gone to work, are now going to high school because there is no work.

For any work which they may later do, they must have better training than ever before. The nation, I think, should consider this as an investment, if we still feel that education of the proper kind, suited to the capacities of every individual, is part of the preparation necessary for adequate participation in a democratic form of government.

I HAVE SOME INFORMATION on the Pan-American Conference in Aid of Spanish Refugees, which is to take place in Mexico City, Mexico, February 7th to 10th, with delegates from Chile, Cuba, the Argentine, nearly all of the Latin-American countries and the United States.

With 130,000 Spanish refugees still in France in need of assistance, it seems wise to help work out opportunities in those countries for establishing them in a pattern which will at least seem fairly familiar.

These Spanish people should have a contribution to make to the New World. It hardly seems fair to me that France should have to bear this added burden at the present time.

Bishop Francis McConneil in his report to Secretary Ickes, who is honorary chairman of the Spanish Refugee Relief Campaign in this country, reports a fair amount of success both in collecting cash and other materials for the aid of these refugees.

Smart Set Functions

By BETTY ALDEN

THE MARRIED GROUP, which doesn't get a chance to attend many of the teas and dances given for debs and post debs, stepped out to the first of a series of mid-winter dinner dances Saturday evening at the Hotel Sheraton...

It was a very festive occasion... one prominent bachelor observed that most of the ladies had brand new gowns, and their husbands entered into the spirit of the evening by sending them fancy corsages...

Guests enjoyed a delicious menu at long tables set around the edge of the mirrored ballroom overlooking the Charles river, and overflow tables were set up in the cosy lobby... Baron and Baroness Krug von Nidda presided over one large group of friends in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Griswold who have just returned from honeymooning in Nassau...

The Griswolds, sporting deep tans as evidence of their southern jaunt, were being congratulated on all sides... and the bride, who was Mrs. Evelyn Fuller, wore a festive corsage of flame camellias on the shoulder of a gold taffeta gown which had a bodice of sparkling sequins... Baroness von Nidda was a charming hostess in black velvet with a black ostrich cape and a string of fresh gardenia buds forming one shoulder strap...

Dinner was served promptly at 9 and beforehand there were a number of cocktail parties at private homes as well as in the cocktail lounge of the hotel... Nelson Aldrich strummed on the piano in the lounge for the amusement of some of his friends while nearby the Walter M. Pratts were the center of a merry group sipping cocktails... Mrs. Pratt wore a gold brocade gown with a halter neckline...

One of the most striking gowns was worn by lovely Mrs. Daniel Frost Comstock... It was fashioned of scarlet tucked organdie with long light sleeves, heartshaped neckline and flaring skirt which she held out to one side as she danced... A matching bow was tucked in her dark curls and she wore a fitted evening coat of scarlet Chinese damask...

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert B. Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Constantine Hutchins, the William G. Nickersons and Clement Burnhome, all prominent members of Dedham's hunting set, were together at one long table... Mrs. Shaw wore a lovely black gown with deep silk fringe forming tiny cap sleeves and diamond clips adorning the deep V neckline... Mrs. Nickerson chose a colorful fuchsia and purple chiffon and Mrs. Hutchins' gown was of rich gold and purple brocade...

Mrs. Benjamin Thorndike in White Chiffon

FRANCES McELWAIN, one of America's foremost women skiers and several times winner of the national women's sailing championship, is as graceful on the dance floor as on skis... She glided to Sammy's waltzes in a black lace and chiffon gown trimmed with embroidered white organdie, and her partner was the same handsome beau who has been her constant escort at society parties for some time...

Mrs. Benjamin A. C. Thorndike and her husband were among the von Niddas' guests... her filmy white chiffon setting off her black hair and made with a floor length chignon cape which tied on under her chin... Mrs. D. Blodgett Martin, another Dedhamite in the merry throng, whirled around with one partner after another in a black velvet gown with a peplum jacket of pale blue faille...

You Can Be Beautiful

Luminary in Make-Up Bases

By ARLINE GOULD

IT ISN'T often that such sensational acclaim greets a cosmetic as has been the reward of a make-up film, a luminary among the select beauty aids.

In England, it was hailed by sensitive skins... and in this country, too... in Australia it was a battle for complexions against sun and wind... in France, Spain and Italy, where oily skins prevail, women reported they never had to worry any more about shiny nose or repeated powdering.

Now the news about it is a new size, one for a dollar, that puts it well within reach of average purses... for this is the kind of cosmetic which lasts for months, so little of it is required at a time.

It is a luscious, thickly creamy affair, a consistency that is neither cream or liquid. And it bears no relation to the old-fashioned coating bases, which clogged up pores and, in a few hours, caked unbecomingly, with the expression lines of the face brought out in full relief.

It blends beautifully, giving the skin a soft glow and transparency, conceals blemishes and sallowness and fatigue... and what is even more important, counteracts and helps correct lines, dryness and the drawn look. It comes in a peach pink and a deep tan tone, both varying in effect with the amount used.

If you would like to learn the name of the foundation film, which is available in a new and less expensive size, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4006, week-days until 5:30, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Love And Marriage Girls Have Big Chance Now

By Beatrice Fairfax
Perhaps you hadn't noticed that this is Leap Year.

Leap Year, you know, has always offered a 12-month period of upside-down-ness in the world of romance, when the shy girl could have her innings, and the girl not so shy could simply act naturally. At the same time the most masterful of youths would have to allow himself to be wooed or overlooked as the case might be.

But now we have a different kind of Leap Year. Or rather a different race of boys and girls whose customs are, I am sure, more wholesome, as they are certainly more natural.

And to a girl who doesn't have much difficulty in making her preferences plain, who is skillful at easing a man out of the picture if he bores her, or at enticing him delicately within her web if he has caused her serious heart-throbs, Leap Year can't, of course, be the great carnival it used to be.

At this point, I'll confess that my own observation has been that the really enterprising girl with a capacity both for love and for leadership, has her own individual way of turning every year into a Leap Year.

And why shouldn't she? Girls have certainly as good judgment in choosing their life-mates as men have. And if a girl has a handsome beau who meets all her specifications and whom she'd like to tag as a permanent partner, I'm all for her doing it.

It is true that some people will tell you that a woman always enkindles a proposal, even if the man who makes it believes the idea is entirely his own. But, of course, we know that isn't strictly true.

If Your Ankles Swell You Can't Feel Well

To your ankles swollen or you tired and worn out a lot of the time with dark circles under your eyes? If so, the cause may be functional rather than organic or systemic kidney trouble. The kidneys work night and day cleaning and filtering excess acids, poisons and wastes from your blood. Because they never get a real rest it's easy to see that as you grow older the kidneys may get tired functionally and slow down. Then excess acids and wastes may accumulate and poison your system. So if your ankles swell or you have to get up nights or suffer burning, itchy or frequent backache or nervousness, due to non-organic or non-systemic kidney troubles, you'll make no mistake in trying the prescription called Cystex, because it has been so successful in so high a percentage of such cases, Cystex is sold under a positive guarantee of money back on return of empty package unless completely satisfactory to you. Cystex now costs only 50¢ a dose, at drug stores and the guarantee protects you.

Spring in Your Bonnet

TIME to splurge with a new spring hat . . . though splurge isn't exactly the word, as you will see when we tell you more about these millinery finds. A style splurge, perhaps . . . but you could name it a miracle, when you consider that each of these indubitably chic bonnets is not a penny over $1.25!

One is a fresh version of the popular Balmoral, and it will give your tweeds or reversible a much cheerier outlook on the wintry scene. It's made of grosgrain with a shiny straw face, and comes in all the deep basic tones around which your Scotch or New Hampshire tweeds are created.

For the youthful matron, there is a forward-titled straw with a very pretty grosgrain ribbon bow tilted merrily on top.

And the last is veritably a confection . . . a straw fabric snood which hugs the head in back, with that extremely popular deep-dish front which is becoming a classic among becoming styles. This is to be had in candy pastels as well as dark tones.

Calavo Dainties for Guests

By MARTHA LEE

Whether you plan menus or just eat them, here's good news for home use and entertaining. Calavo pears are in the spotlight because the entire harvest is ready to eat right now—much earlier than usual and in much greater abundance.

Someone forgot to turn off the switch when the weather turned hot in southern California last September, and the beautiful sun has been working overtime ever since. As a result the susceptible calavo harvest has overreached even itself, and there are more of these pears as candidates for our mid-winter salads than we have ever before.

CALAVO HALF-SHELL SALAD
Most of us prefer the plain half-shell salad if left to personal choice. It's the simplest and best way to satisfy a real liking for the fruit. Cut each calavo into lengthwise halves, remove the seed at the point of a sharp knife, and sprinkle with lemon juice and salt. Serve on a lettuce garnished salad plate with extra sections of lemon or added French dressing. For the dressing, be plain or given new character and greater popularity with minced stuffed green olives or with crumbled Roquefort or Danish blue cheese.

COUNTRY SALAD made with calavos is ideal as informal buffet fare, backed up with a chicken curry or beef patties grilled with bacon. It makes use of the peeled halved calavo rather than the famous unpeeled half-shell. The half-shell is correctly served with a spoon while a fork is required for the peeled half calavo.

Peel all calavo cuts—rings, crescent and lengthwise slices, cross-sized sections and halves by removing the skin only after cutting into the desired forms. Proceed with a knife to remove some of the mass.

CALAVO COUNTRY SALAD

2 calavo pears

Lemon juice

Salt

Salad greens for garnish

1 cup diced pickled beets

1/2 cup chopped onion

1/2 cup finely cut celery

French dressing

Cut each calavo into halves crosswise, remove seed and pull off skin. Sprinkle with lemon juice and salt. Cut a very thin slice from each, cut end to give a flat base. Place one half upright on each of four garnished salad plates. Combine beets, onion and celery and toss together lightly. Fill seed cavities of calavo halves with vegetable mixture. Serve with French dressing. Makes four servings.

SEAFOOD HALF-SHELL

2 calavo pears

1 cup diced celery

1 cup flaked crabmeat

1/2 cup cocktail sauce

Cut fruit into halves lengthwise, remove seeds, and sprinkle cut portions with lemon juice and salt. Combine celery, crabmeat and cocktail sauce, more salt if desired. Blend lightly and use to fill centers. Sprinkle tops with paprika. Makes four servings.

VARIATIONS

Lobster, tuna, oysters, salmon, shrimp or anchovies may be substituted. Any suitable vegetable may be used instead of celery. Vary dressing accordingly.

Martin Pattern

Pattern 9241 may be ordered only in sizes small medium and large.

Small size View A requires 2 1/2 yards of dress fabric and 1 yard of bias strip. View C requires 3 1/2 yards of dress fabric and 1 yard of bias strip.

To get this pattern send fifteen cents in coins to Boston Evening Globe, 222 West 18th St., New York, N. Y. Ten cents additional will bring you our newest Pattern Book.

JOAN BENNETT PLAYS WIDOW MEMORIAL'S NEXT FILM

Two Previews Wednesday

A Brazilian jungle is the "Green Ichi," Universal production coming to Keith-Memorial screen for Wednesday preview showings at 7 and 10 p. m., in which four young men and a beautiful widow find themselves.

Hollywood's recent bride, Joan Bennett, plays the devastating widow, whose potent charms almost wreck a scientific expedition originally organized to discover Inca treasure. Miss Bennett's husband, a member of the expedition, is wounded by poisoned arrows in a fight with hostile natives. Runners are sent back to civilization for serum and bring her back.

However, he dies before her arrival. Letters in his effects reveal that she is not his wife, since he already had a wife in the states before he married her. The knowledge makes her bitter and reckless. Her presence shatters the camp's tense morale.

It is decided that she must leave camp. But the rains set in and none may leave. Cannibals besiege the camp and havoc reigns.

But the fetching widow and her next big-screen effect an escape through the aid of friendly Indians. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., is the man who wins the Widow Bennett. Others in the cast including 11 principals are John Howard, Alan Hale, George Bancroft, George Sanders and Vincent Price.

HELEN HAYES and Evelyn Varden in "Ladies and Gentlemen," opening at the Colonial tonight for two weeks.

NADINE GAE is one of the featured players in "Two for the Show," opening tomorrow night at the Shubert.

Beverly Roberts On Boston's Bill

Hollywood's Beverly Roberts, who played the role of the widow in the film "The Green Ichi," is the star of the new Broadway production "The Night" at the Shubert Theatre. The play is a comedy by Philip Barry, and it is being produced by the Shubert Theatre. Roberts is playing the role of the widow, who is a beautiful and charming woman who is the center of attention in the play.

GRANDMA'S GOAT

A Complete Short Story
Daily on This Page

By OLGA L.
ROSMANITH

GRANDMA was sitting in the orchard in her wheel-chair enjoying the September sun. Her knitting lay forgotten on her lap. The beatific contentment on her wrinkled old face indicated she found life very good.

Her faded blue gaze followed while the antics of her pet goat Eliza danced in circles around the ether pole, and then rested happily on the abundant fruit crop ripening on the trees.

She heard the cat step at the orchard gate and put on her glasses to see who was coming towards her across the grass. Her expression soured. "Soldier in all his glory," she remarked with a withering look at the young man's beautiful clothes. "Now what are you after?"

"I can be offensive to," the visitor retorted. "I intend to keep an eye on the management of my property."

Grandma snorted and Eliza leaped in filch, tugging wildly at her tether. "So you've still got that bee buzzing in your bonnet! How'd you like it if I got a lawyer to stop you making your goat a nuisance?"

"You ask me to believe you never heard the truth about the war?"

Grandma laughed with real merriment. "Ho, ho, ho, the will. Or all the tall stories I ever heard in my life! Ho, ho, ho, the will!" She rocked herself with her hands on her knees.

"Ho, ho, ho, the will," the funny young man mumbled. "I'll give you something to laugh at, you cackling old hen. When it's found I'll ruin you out. And your dirty little goat. Of all foul things to see on the front garden of my estate."

"Sit down, Donald Duck," said Grandma in a tone of command. "It gives me a pain in the neck to look up to you." She snatched a knitting needle at the goat. "That beautiful pedicure animal is a symbol of the poetic justice of your conduct. You do not have our sympathy."

He looked at the goat and he looked back at her, the curve of his weak mouth expressing merriment. "Sorry, but I don't get your meaning, Grandma."

"YOU FOUND IT"

"Don't call me Grandma. You scatter happiness to all who can look on you and exultate themselves you are no blood relation. Ah yes, you and the goat. Old Doc Fisher said I had to have goat's milk to keep me alive and kicking, but it was difficult to get out here. So Allene said I want Grandma to live forever to enjoy this house. She shall have a goat of her own. So there you see it."

"So this," That's typical of Allene and all her work. She deserves her luck. She thinks of others."

The young man stood menacingly over the frail old woman. "You've given yourself away. You found it."

finger nails. "It isn't easy to keep calm while suffering such a rank injustice." He raised his head and looked around the well-kept estate, the gracious flanking the orchard, the gracious blue-shuttered white house gleaming among the trees. "I'm so broke I'm going crazy. And all this 'mine'."

"See you. But you can't expect me to believe that Mrs. Clive would leave her entire estate to an adopted son and disinherit her beloved grand-daughter, a girl she could hardly bear out of her sight. Come, come, if you'd invented a tale about sharing the property, it might have held water."

After dinner Grandma knitted by a lamp in the gentle warmth indoors. She watched Howard talking to Allene now and again while her fingers rested. Happiness glowed in their eager, absorbed face.

Irony of life—now that they didn't have to worry about money, Howard was getting on so fast there was no stopping him.

Grandma compared the two young men in her mind. Howard hadn't even wanted a vacation when Allene inherited the money. His wife's security had only meant opportunity—he could take more chances. Heaven knew what the place would be like if Eric lived here. Full of loud girls and drinking parties. Grandma shuddered. "Cold, Gran?" said Allene, seeing K.

"No, child, I just had a vision of a young man struggling out of a duck pond. Don't take my temperature. I'm funny that way."

Howard laughed, rose from the divan and pulled Allene with him.

"Well, that's what it really was."

"Wait! Wait!"

"Yes, I'll had some—er—misunderstanding with her, but she forgave me a few days before she died. She agreed to help me to marry Allene. We were to share equally if we married, but it was all for me if we didn't. I was with her when she drew up the will. It was witnessed by Emma the housemaid and the gardener who was killed."

"Where was her lawyer?"

"There wasn't time—oh, he wasn't necessary. It was perfectly legal. I know about wills—I do assure you."

Eric went off muttering about evictions and lawyers. Grandma put her old hands over the uncomfortable flutter of her heart. It took a whole hour for her to feel herself again.

September days were mellow in Radford but the nights were chilly.

Grandma's heart tried to turn a somersault. "Oh—then there was such a will?"

"Yes, madam. I was called into this room one day with old Benjamin to sign a paper. Mr. Eric had written it out and Mrs. Clive had signed it. It was on a sheet of her own newspaper. She was sitting in that very chair you're sitting in. They'd had words I think. My poor lady had been crying."

Grandma's trembling fingers tapped on the table. "I see. Then don't you know what became of it?"

"No, madam. I thought he'd stolen it to make sure of it because Mrs. Clive made me search the house for it the same evening. It had absolutely vanished. She was mad as soon as he'd gone like she always was, and wanted to find it and destroy it."

"She was going to madam. She had me call the lawyer to come and see her two days later. But she was gone in a few minutes with that last attack. She didn't expect to die so suddenly."

"Of course not. And you searched again afterwards?"

"Mr. Eric searched." Emma relied up her eyes at the memory of that devastating search. "He nearly took the paper off the walls. But it had gone like it never existed."

"Thank you, Emma. I'll call you back later."

"She was sitting in that very chair," Emma had said. This chair with an apple tree. This chair that swallowed Grandma's knitting and glasses and cough drops regularly in its two deep sides. This chair that would think nothing whatever of swallowing up a will.

Grandma was no coward. She pushed her right hand between the upholstery and the arm as far as it would go, and brought up a folded piece of slate-blue note paper. She put it in her knitting bag without looking at it. For the moment at least she would rather not be sure that logic made the good detective.

The mysterious paper in the knitting bag kept Grandma awake. Her old fingers itched to unfold it. "But once I've seen it," she thought, "the darn thing will be written on my mind forever." She said her nightly prayers, adding—"now this is up to You, God. I'm too old to cope with this mix-up."

She fell into a fitful sleep in the early hours of the morning. The birds had already begun to call in sweet drowsy voices. I wouldn't like to be back where the birds didn't call me, was the old woman's

"Come along Lazy. Let's go to the pictures."

Allene looked at Gran, her face delicate and elfin in the lamplight.

"What about it Angel? Will you be lonesome?"

"No dear. I never am—now —"

Grandma heard the car go down the drive. She pressed the bell push on the table beside the blue arm chair she always sat in. Emma came promptly. "You want to go to bed already, Madam?"

"No Emma. I want to ask you something. Mr. Eric said you witnessed that missing will he talks about. Is that possible? Do you really know anything about it?"

"I didn't see what it said, Madam."

LOST OR STOLEN?

Grandma's heart tried to turn a somersault. "Oh—then there was such a will?"

"Yes, Madam. I was called into this room one day with old Benjamin to sign a paper. Mr. Eric had written it out and Mrs. Clive had signed it. It was on a sheet of her own newspaper. She was sitting in that very chair you're sitting in. They'd had words I think. My poor lady had been crying."

She fell into a fitful sleep in the early hours of the morning. The birds had already begun to call in sweet drowsy voices. I wouldn't like to be back where the birds didn't call me, was the old woman's last waking thought.

Then the sun was gold in the room and Allene was standing by her bed with the goat's milk for breakfast. She kissed the peach-ut cheek and shook up the pillow. "Another fine day for you, Aunt to sit in the orchard."

"Aye it is that, dear child. I'm glad I lived for this year if I never see another one."

Allene fixed the tray on the bed table. There was brown bread and honey and sweet farm butter. She poured the foaming milk. "Elixir of youth for you, darling. Drink up and live another hundred years."

ELIZA SETTLES IT

Grandma laughed. "And who would I be doing all that for?"

Allene screwed up her nose and looked like a little gnome. "Why you need that time to finish your knitting."

Grandma sighed unexpectedly. "This is a lovely place, Allene. I love it. How would you feel you had to leave it?"

The girl looked startled. "What a terrible thought, Gran. Why, piece of me would die."

Grandma thought of that and the apple tree in the orchard. She thought of it so deeply that she didn't feel Eliza pushing her face past her again. She thought of the paper hidden in her knitting bag, and knew that after all she was a coward because she didn't want to open it and read it.

It might be a harmless letter of Mrs. Clive had written to ask body. Or a shopping list. Wasn't she a little crazy to be so sure?

was the will?

Eliza thrust her silky muzzle into Grandma's hand, but the usual petting was not forthcoming. Gran's misty eyes, farsighted now, rested on the blue barrie of the distant hills. Eliza abandoned her pleas for attention.

The old woman rocked her shoulders back and forth. "I must look at it," she muttered, "right, right and wrong's wrong. That's what I learned in my young days. Maybe the lawyers can settle it. It's all right for Allene. How fun it was saying her name, like taking hundred years to finish my knitting."

She reached for the knitting bag on her lap and found it was gone. Grandma looked down. Eliza was eating the knitting. She had already eaten what might or might not have been the will. A scrap of paper clung to a basket. All that was left of the apple of discord. Grandma was sure it was. But she didn't know and now she never could know.

The golden morning blurred unaccustomed tears blinded her courageous old eyes. She wheeled her chair gently against Eliza's push and drew away from the nest in the tangled ruins of the wood.

"Don't kill yourself, poor beast. You're an absurd little fool, but I love you."

CASH LOANS

HOW YOU CAN BORROW $100 IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $6.41 A MONTH

You can get cash simply and promptly at Household Finance, if you can repay your loan in monthly installments. You borrow without endorsers or guarantors, and repay on the installment plan which fits your own needs and your own income.

Choose your own payment plan. Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. Loans are also made in other amounts and for other periods. Note that you may make very small payments and you may also make one or more payments less your loan costs. Charges on a $100 loan repaid in nine months installments of $26.58 each, for instance, are only $6.32. (All payments shown in the table include the charges.)

What you do to borrow

All you do to get a Household Finance loan is acquaint us with your needs. No salary or wage assignment, no stocks or bonds required. Loans are made on furniture, car or note. No credit insurance needed of friends or relatives. No need to ask friends or fellow-workers to sign the loan papers. You get your loan promptly and simply.

Study the loan and payment table. Then come in or telephone for full information without obligation.

Cotton Textiles Show Strength

Financial Editor

The cotton textile market is showing some indications of strength... Reports from New York's Delphic oracle, Worth st., are most encouraging... And New England textile observers are preparing to revise activity estimates upward...

BUYERS... Recently quit their disinterested pose and literally gobbled up some 25,000,000 yards of cloth... As a result prices stiffened, in many instances advanced, and sellers professed to see in stock market values is ended... A goodly number of analysts think it has... While others, expressing doubt, at least admit an end to hand-to-mouth or full-in-ordering... The moment assumed some explosive characteristics that, if long continued, will spell the end of local mill uncertainty... Consequently the few days will find New England textile leaders paying careful attention to conditions in the Worth St. market... For, as we noted last week, Worth St.'s present is virtually this section's mill future...

The national debt has climbed $20,638,000,000 since 1933, as shown on this pictograph. The cost of recovery and relief measures since 1933—$20,237,000,000—tells the story of the increase in the debt.

THE FIRST... Meeting of the new Board of Governors of the National Association of Securities Dealers opens in Washington, D. C., today... Boston brokers attending are Pliny Jewell, vice-president of Coffin & Burr, Inc., and Hermann F. Clarke, partner of Eastbrook & Co... Great importance is attached to the meeting in brokerage circles... Since some of the policies to be discussed and acted upon by the quasi-public body may well have far reaching effects upon the future of the investment banking and securities business... The NASD represents culmination of years of intensive work and co-operation with the SEC... In an attempt to secure effective self-regulation... And it may well serve as a model for other industries in the future...

There will be plenty of time to decide on the longer term outlook after a technical rally has undergone a thorough selling test... As for personal inclinations we think things are going to work out rather pleasantly... Solely because there is no bona fide reason for anticipating a further severe contraction in prices...

BRIGHTTEST... Business news of the moment comes from a surprising source... For few would expect the much belabored railroad industry to furnish much of anything in the line of optimism... Yet recent comments of rail leaders indicate their belief the industry is on the threshold of the most prosperous period in years... A New York Central vice-president recently said business is now running 15 or 16 per cent ahead of last year... And is approaching 1937 levels... While rails serving the great midwestern auto center place car requirements 35 per cent above last year... Such items are not to be overlooked... For railroads simply can't prosper unless industry is active...

Knudsen Says Democracy Europe's Need

By JAMES L. KILGALLAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 22 (INS)—William S. Knudsen, president of General Motors and one of America's foremost businessmen, declared in an exclusive interview today that the solution of the conflict abroad is democracy in Europe.

He thought the war is "terribly silly" and made the point that the improvement in business in the United States the past six months is a real prosperity and not due to war orders.

He also said: "Business in this country right now is fine and the future 'looks all right.'"

Sit-down strikes are a thing of the past. He anticipated a 10 to 15 per cent increase in automobile sales this year.

Capitalism is a good thing for today as when he was a young man striving to succeed. The fact 1940 is a presidential year won't affect business materially.

Youth has as many opportunities today as when he was a young man striving to succeed. The fact 1940 is a presidential year won't affect business materially.

The next two or three generations still will be paying for the war now raging.

The solution of Europe's trouble is decentralization and the setting up of democracies on the American pattern. "The prosperity the United States is now experiencing is not a war prosperity," he said. "It is simply the result of the business curve swinging upward. There has not been enough war business to put a sizable number of men back to work in private industry."

He explained that he watches the federal reserve index. This shows how business has been improved; that national income is better. When national income is better the automobile industry sells more cars. Last year 3,700,000 American cars were sold and Knudsen anticipates a 10 to 15 per cent increase in sales for 1940.

Stock Leaders Rest At Lower Levels

NEW YORK, Jan. 22 (AP)—Attempts to dig up rallying ammunition were unsuccessful in today's stock market and leaders generally rested on a slightly lower shelf.

Steels gave ground after a mildly mixed opening, and issues up a trifling at the start reversed their direction. The trading pace was about the slowest for the year to date. Declines of fractions to a point predominated. The news, while not too bearish, still was hardly calculated to touch off a real buying wave. Lightness of offerings, though, brought optimism that important investment holdings were still intact. Many with idle cash were said to be waiting to see how far the spring business recession would go before getting back in the market.

News From Springtime:
Baseball 5 Weeks Away

WINTER LIES HEAVILY IN OUR LAPS. But there is news of Springtime. Soon the contracts of the Bees and Red Sox will come snapping back. Five weeks hence the wheels of Boston baseball specials will be clicking "Hellity-hoop . . . hellity hoop!" as they bowl south for Florida sun-tan. Five weeks and the low descending sun will see us roll through Jaw-Jaw's winter tarnished greens. Winter's opiates will be lulling a sleepy land.

AUSTEN LAKE

Yeh! Georgia always seems to wear a sullen patience when seen swiftly from a rolling train, as though the old state still broods about General Sherman . . . nature peering out from under heavy eyelids with the dignity of silent reproach. Last autumn's dry cotton stubble will be standing in the fields. Sun-blistered and windowless cabins will be resting on brick stilts, half-hidden in the hollows.

Beards of Spanish moss will drip from trees and telephone wires. Angular, sun-dried men in denims will stand at the cross-road stations, typical of the South's eternal attitude of waiting.

Yeh! Five weeks and the annual whirl of sport spins toward baseball where the green grass grows all around . . . soon it will be Maytime and the cosmopolitan crowds of the Kentucky Derby . . . then June and the expectant sob of the fight crowd as Joe Louis pickles another fistic stiff . . . September and the press rim of the World Series . . . October where flags fly, bands tootle and the vast craters of humanity thrill for their favorite varisities. Travel, hotels and expense accounts. Eight hundred words a day, or maybe 1000, and nothing to do 'til tomorrow—a deadly grind!

Spring is practically here again!

The Hounds of Spring

FIVE WEEKS HENCE AND JACKSONVILLE in the late evening . . . orange peddlers hawking their sacks of ripened fruit . . . the station jammed with train-waiters and heaped high with baggage and tackle . . . an hour's delay while the Bees or Red Sox, according to your choice of host, stretch stiffened joints by tramping the sordid approaches to the city's center . . .

Store fronts displaying cheap tourist goods—Seminole imitations, alligator goods and coconut-shell lamps. Shadowed figures in the doorways . . . Honky-tonk lights, blinking about food, drink and fun. Yeh! . . . Lefty Grove has signed his contract and gone West to toil in Hot Springs! Fenway Park has had its face lifted! Casey Stengel is viewed with optimism! Time to shake the cedar chips from summer flannels and search cluttered closets for golf toots and fishing tackle. O! The mocking bird is warbling in the sweet magnolia tree!

Five weeks and we will be deep in the Golden Peninsula, that state which looks like a great cow's udder on U. S. maps . . . the turpentine groves and the blackjack regions where tall stunted and abortive pines grow high in a sandy soil . . . a level land that is monotonous with murky bogs, palmetto jungles and unpicturesque wildwood . . . The night will be sweet with wood-smoke and lit with forest fires, fringes of flame creeping through the saw-grass to feed on the inflammable sap of the trees . . .

Sympy From the Sunny South

YEH! THE NATION NEEDS ITS TRAINING CAMP news as a sedative for the international headaches, racial gripes and social animosities which still flood the daily prints . . . Good time to guess the Sox into a pennant for the sake of shedding sunshine to tide winter-weary people over to Spring thaws . . . Wuxtree! "Grove the pubaling pink of his old personality!" Read it. "Cronin like a new-fangled colt!" . . .

Five weeks hence our Fullman will cautiously chuff-chuff through the citrus groves at Sarasota or over the Manatee River's mile-long trestle . . . The morning heat of a semi-tropic sun will glance from heat-baked walls . . . white clusters of orange trees will throw off lazy perfumes; the crimson mouths of hibiscus and purple bougainvillea and pink azalea will spot the scene . . . Birds, gluttoned on Florida grub, will flirrate notes like threads of fine-spun glass . . . The air will be heavy with artificial June. Yeh!

Five weeks and we'll be walking down bungalow avenues, a mashie-pitch from the ball yard if with the Sox, but a full man's mile if with the Bees.

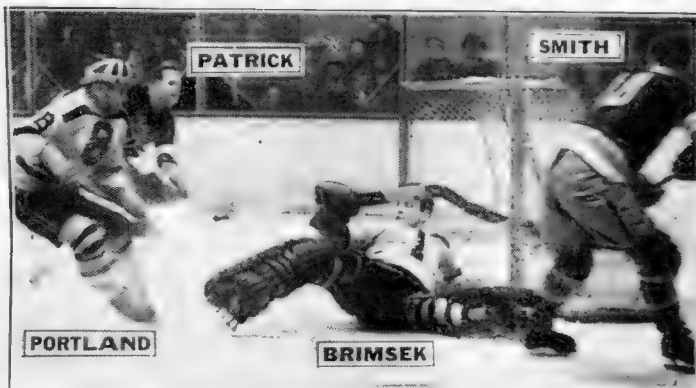

The First Muscle-Twitches

SOON WOOD SMOCK WILL BE RISING from tin chimneys in the training shacks . . . fat-bellied stoves will be red and ready to dry perspiry uniforms . . . Sunburn greases, analgesics and liniments will be ranged on shelves . . . wooden lockers, doorless, will be labelled with the player's names, printed on strips of adhesive tape. And the men will pull on freshly laundered, last year's woollens and go clattering on spikes for their first, gentle muscle-twitches and jog around the outfield fences . . .

Joe Cronin and Casey Stengel will perch on the wooden stands and discuss non-committal ponderosities with the newsmen.

Yeh, this is Monday, January 22! Five weeks hence we will be watching the sunset, Florida's big burning eye in the sky, and after that the stars, large as grapefruit, and near enough to be picked by hand . . . Evening and a breath of damp air from the Gulf, lights along the waterfront. Lelaure, listening to the silken rustle of the palm fronds and the first light, ear-curling exercises with the ball players.

Shux! Spring is practically on the door step!

RANGERS MARCH NEARER
BRUINS' '30 WIN RECORD

TIING BRUINS—Goalie Brimsek of the Bruins seems very surprised indeed as he plays Boomp-a-Daisy in the New York Garden. For he can't do anything at all to stop Ranger Smith's shot from scoring to tie the count at 1-all. Jack Portland is out of it, and Lynn Patrick of the Rangers grins delightedly in the background. Rangers won, 4-2.

Hockey players don't like too much talk about things that may happen, but the amazing New York Rangers may surpass the 1929-30 feat of the Boston Bruins, who lost only five times in a 44-game National Hockey League campaign, according to the Associated Press.

The Rangers have played 28 of this season's 48 contests already and lost only four.

From the way they played against Boston's world champion Bruins last night in capturing the league lead, there seems to be no reason to believe they will be beaten often in the next 20.

They already have gone through one 19-game stretch without a loss to set a new league record. Last night's 4-2 victory over Boston was their second win since that streak ended.

SCHMIDT SCORES TWICE

That game also was their fifth against Boston this season without a defeat. Only the first ended in a tie. As usual, the Ranger defense was a bit too good.

A crowd of 16,214 got the kind of rugged, exciting game that was expected, but only for 40 seconds of the first period was Boston ahead.

Milt Schmidt notched the first of two Boston goals on a rink-length backaway. Then Clint Smith scored the first of two he made for the Rangers.

Mae Colville sent New York ahead to stay in the second frame and Bryan Hestall tallied in the third before the second Schmidt goal.

The victory put the Rangers two points ahead of the Bruins, who in turn hold a three-point margin over Toronto's Maple Leafs. Toronto, after routing the New York Americans, 3-1, Saturday, fell before Detroit's Red Wings, 3-2, last night.

STANDING SHAKEN UP

The lower part of the league standing was shaken up as the result of Detroit's triumph and the Americans' 2-1 victory over the Blackhawks at Chicago. The Red Wings climbed to fifth place and the Amerks to sixth. The Montreal

Canadians life over the weekend, dropped to seventh.

Goalie Paul Goodman of the Blackhawks, in the third period, caught a flying puck over the right eye and took seven stitches. He finished the game with a bandage nearly covering the eye.

Honor B. C.
Grid Squad

Though this is the period of mid-year examinations at Boston College and the campus is on studies the football, soccer and all and sundry students interested in the affair will have to find time to attend the annual Varsity B. C. Club banquet, to be held Wednesday night at the University Club.

Head Coach Frank Leahy will be the principal speaker at the Wednesday night affair.

The varsity and freshman grid squads will be presented with their annual awards. The varsity will receive letters and jackets and the freshmen will receive sweaters and 44 numbers.

Sport Interludes

By BILL GRIMES

The Rangers pinned another defeat on the Bruins last night in New York, their fourth in five starts . . . The Blue Shirts had a tough time dissolving their first place partnership with the Rossmen, who were very much in the running until late in the third period.

The Bruins hope to keep within hailing distance of the Rangers by beating Toronto tomorrow night at the Garden . . . Between now and next Sunday, the Blue Shirts will play two games with Americans and meet the Maple Leafs on their home ice Thursday.

Young Joe Monahan, who is in the nets for the Belmont High School, is one of the best goal mind-ers in the prep school ranks . . . When "Old Ed" is on his job it's tough looking out at the end of the Belmont High School out door rink . . . In fact it's so tough that the team's shift ends half way through a period . . . With Ed "Old Ed" in the net, the Bruins are in a tough spot.

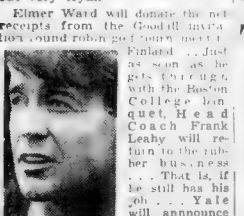

Turk Broda

It seems that the Metropolitan senior championships conflict with the Casey meet and the New York racketeers, who govern that body have refused traveling permits for the stars who are in demand by the Casey committee.

During the 12 years that he has been in pro hockey, Eddie "Turk" Ronne has been a credit to the game . . . Not to mention the fact that he's one of the very few Americans ever to make the N. H. L. grade . . . Can you imagine Manager "Red" Dutton going to all the trouble of asking for waivers on three of his players . . . If these players weren't all through as major leaguers they'd never have been sent to New York . . .

During his recent visit, Dr. Eddie Anderson didn't pass up an opportunity to deny that he ever stated that his Iowa eleven could have beaten any Holy Cross team he ever coached . . . There were over 200 Boston Garden gallery gods in New York last night for the Bruins-Rangers game . . . They're critical, but very loyal.

Elmer Ward will donate the net receipts from the Goodwill Invitational round robin tournament to the United Fund . . . Just as soon as he gets through with the Boston College basketball team, here a Coach Frank Leahy will return to the rubber business . . . That is, if he still has his job . . . Yale will announce Clyde Emgle's successor as freshman baseball coach this week . . . And, incidentally, the Toronto club of the International League has an opening for a scout . . .

Coach Leahy

Freddie Corcoran has wired Sam for his raccoon coat . . . The California weather is very unseasonable . . . Almost cold . . . "Rangers" mought about the tuncation of the Boston Four Ball League.

President Jack Quinn, of the Bees farm clubs is still trying to find a city for an Inter State League team . . . Miss Mary and Margaret Quinn, daughters of President Bob Quinn, of the Bees, are at Palm Beach, Fla. . . . Ed "Moose" Krause, who is "jumping center" for the New York Wind, is tops as a basketball player . . . New England fans have never seen Krause's equal, opinions to the contrary notwithstanding . . . The Ice Folks of 1940 broke all attendance records at the Boston Garden . . . Their success was just another tribute to the promotional ability of General Manager Walter Brown . . . Walter is not only a good fellow but he is a very keen business executive as the Garden directors now realize full well.

"Bucky" Bates, who was one of the greatest quarter-milers ever developed by Coach Harry Hillman, of Dartmouth, is clicking as a hockey coach at Brookline High . . . The Rich Town sextet is leading the Eastern Massachusetts Hockey League and, incidentally, is about to grab an other title . . . The Boston hockey fans who gushmarked themselves by "covering" Eddie Shore's debut in the International-American Hockey League were not impressed by the chilly attack in the Springfield rink when they were in "Mr. Hockey's" performance . . .

Eddie Shore

As well as far as to say that the Shore management does not care for the link for the customers' . . . The Springfield rink has never been heated . . . Ask Fred Hoey . . . to know . . . And, incidentally, Eddie Shore didn't step from senior amateur hockey to the N. H. L. . . . He was purchased by the Bruins from the Edmonton Eskimos of the Western Canadian Hockey League at the end of the 1935-36 season.

Linney Sets New Bobsled Record

Turner Satisfied With Reds' Contract

CINCINNATI, Jan. 22 (AP)—It was all right by the Boston Reds to be traded by the Boston Reds to the Cincinnati Reds for Les Scarsella. Turner's 1940 contract, duly signed, came in today. He is the 23rd Red player and 11th pitcher signed up.

RINGMEN NEARING COAST

By JACK CONWAY

ENROUTE TO SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 22—Members of the Eastern and Western All-America teams are today rolling towards Reno, Nevada, as they continue their trip to San Francisco where on Thursday night they will compete in the Grand National finals of the All-America tournament.

George Freeman informed the boxers that while in San Francisco they will make their headquarters at the Whitcomb Hotel. The boxers will remain in San Francisco until Friday morning when they will take a day train for a sightseeing trip to Los Angeles.

There will be a half hour stop over at Reno early this evening which will give the members of the party an opportunity to get a hurried view of the city where Jack Johnson won the heavyweight championship of the world from Jim Jeffries, July 4, 1910.

The Jeffries-Johnson bout was originally planned for California, but there was so much opposition to the mixed contest that Tex Rickard changed the site of the contest to Reno.

AT DESTINATION TOMORROW

The boxers will arrive in San Francisco tomorrow morning. Arrangements have already been made for the men to be housed in the swanky Olympic Club. Gene Driscoll, chairman of the boxing committee of the New England A. A. U., is enroute to Reno for the boxers to use the Olympic Club's quarters.

The eight members of the eastern team, Jones, Leonard, Daley, Egan, Priest, Conley, Cox and Wint are in high spirits and confident they will make good showings in the bouts on Thursday night.

The eight western boxers are a husky looking lot. Six of them are Negroes. The success of Joe Louis has caused numerous colored boxers to strive for the top amateur honors.

GLASS RISING

The All-America boxers and members of their party occupy two private cars on the luxurious Overland Limited which is equipped with two club cars, two diners, a barber shop and a stewardess. The latter is also a nurse.

The cold spell has broken in the West. Last week the mercury was 35 degrees below zero in parts of Nebraska and Wyoming, while today it was well above the zero mark.

told, against humoring these particular gentlemen when it comes to sharing his ball-field, Fenway Park, with the Bees while the Adams-Wetmore combination is (excuse me, Mr. Hunt) the boss.

MR. YAWKEY IS A STUBBORN HOMRE as well as a brilliant and genial one . . . It's sixteen years since Mr. Y. and yours truly first roamed the Manhattan plains together, and that was before (I think) he even knew Eddie Collins . . . Boston to him (in those days) was only a place north and east of Yale, which twice in his college career he aimed for and arrived at to watch a football game . . . And Tom (we used to call him Tim) was a strapping tycoon only then, without much more than two millions (instead of sixty) to his name . . . Not only did we know him when we knew him well . . . Therefore, when word reached here from one of those five syllable sources—authoritative, unimpeachable, etc.—that Yawkey Field will not be shared with the Braves while the Adams-Wetmore duo is in command, we believe it.

AND I DON'T THINK that the reason for the banishment is anything personal . . . It derives probably from the well-known side-brotherhood of the Messrs. Adams and Wetmore on handling on to a racetrack, Suffolk Downs, when, as everyone knows, a race track is powerful opposition to a ballpark . . . (Tim probably just can't puzzle out how a man sets up as opposition to himself. Skip all that . . . Would the Bees, unshackled from an expensive lease to the Alston acreage where 300 batting averages are as hard to make as Walter Winchell by a Christian Frontier, with leasing privileges to Fenway Park, be attractive to Governor Murphy and his high-powered group . . . If so, let 'em get in touch with this department.

Princess Vonian Best on Ice Course

LAKE GEORGE, N. Y., Jan. 22 (AP)—Princess Vonian, classy eight-year-old mare owned by W. Ellis Gilmour, Saratoga Springs, scored her third straight victory of the ice harness racing season by sweeping the Class A Ballos Hotel Stake in straight heats.

She was clocked in 1:05.25 for the first half-mile heat, fastest time of the day over the kite-shaped track.

32 SEEK 8 STATE CROWNS

By RINGSIDE

Eight new state amateur boxing champions will be crowned at the Arena tonight after four hours of battling in which 32 rugged individuals compete in 24 bouts.

Each of the eight classes is packed with new talent, boys like Steve Kronis, Bill Weinberg et al who have developed rapidly in the last twelve-month.

Veterans like Freddy McLean of Roxbury, Lou Vivolo of the North End and Leo Gauthier of North-bridge will have to show all their pistine skill to come out on top.

The boys have a dual objective in tonight's battling.

First, the winners in each class will qualify automatically for the New England championships at the Garden on March 11.

Second, the outstanding sextet will compete in a grand inter-city show at New London, Ct., on Jan. 30, which will feature the President's Birthday celebration for the infantile Paralysis fund there.

For these reasons, and the additional one that the boys actually love to fight, the tournament should be a fighting one from flag-flap to finish.

Perhaps the outstanding class tonight will be the featherweight, in which will compete Steve Kronis, sensational young South Boston lad, who has won 11 fights in the past two months.

In the same class are Harold "Juke" Harris of Malden, Gene Morris of Natick and Bill Hadley of Taunton. The last named wowed the fans in the last trial tournament, and Harris was the early season sensation at the Arena.

To top the title, Kronis may have it be at peak form, but he apparently won't, judging by his 10-0 victory over Jackie Heard recently.

Freddy McLean and Lou Vivolo are top men in the 160's, while the young and classy Bill Weinberg in the heavyweight division must wade through Ken Jason, Cohasset fisherman; Bill Dupee, Cambridge architect, and Dave Bagley, West Newton garage attendant.

Tufts Captain Secretly Married

Jack West, captain elect of the Tufts football team was reported married to Martha Coulter of Ridley Park, Pa., also home of the groom. The couple were secretly married at Elkton, Md., Dec. 19, three days after West's election. He is the second married man to lead the Jumbo team in two years. Arthur Griffin, who West succeeded, married Helen Haar, former Jackson student, last year.

HEINTZELMAN SIGNS

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 22 (AP)—Kenneth Heintzelman, 22-year-old, six-foot southpaw from Perquim, N.C., became the 21st Pittsburgh Pirate and the third southpaw hurler to sign a 1940 contract.

Spain Stars As Olympics Tie Braves

VALLEYFIELD, Que., Jan. 22—In one of the wildest games witnessed on local ice in years, the Boston Olympics rallied in the closing moments to tie the Braves sextet, 2 to 2.

Frankie Spain saved the bacon of the Beaneaters on a sally in the third period that put the invaders on even terms with the local aggregation. An overtime period failed to change the complexion of the contest.

The police took a hand in matters when Bob Jeremiah of the Hub team and Jean Huguet tangled in the third period.

The Braves took advantage of a brief lapse on the part of the Bostonians by scoring two goals in the opening stanza. Gerry Desrosiers put his club back in the running with a tally and Spain gave them an even break with a brilliant bit of stick handling that caused the partisan fans to stand and cheer.

Howes Beaten In Squash Final

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Jan. 22 (AP)—Hunter Lott, Philadelphia, dethroned H. Sherman Howes, Jr., Boston, in the finals of the Atlantic Coast squash racquets championships.

Lott's victory by a 15-10, 12-15, 17-15 score earned him the title he relinquished in 1939 to the Bostonian in a similar four-set final. The year before Lott dethroned Howes in the final after a hard battle.

Lott swept past A. W. Patterson of Philadelphia in straight sets in the semi-finals, while Howes eliminated Ralph Seicher of New York in the other round of four matches. Patterson had eliminated Donald Strachan of Philadelphia, national champion, in a quarter-final contest, while Seicher put out Stanley Pearson, Jr., of Princeton, intercollegiate champion.

It is when people were beginning to wonder whether the durable Kansan would loop along forever he disclosed in a radio interview that this would be his last season.

"For a long time now I've postponed my retirement from active competition, but it's one of those things that can't be put off forever," he said. "This will be my last year."

OLYMPICS OUT

"I've continued in competition these past two years mainly with the hope of trying for my third successive Olympic team."

"Now conditions on the other side have made the holding of the Olympic games impossible. So why go on?"

The great runner, who used to break some kind of a record nearly every time he competed, already has made three appearances in this winter's indoor meets, besides in the Sugar Bowl meet at New Orleans in December.

He won the handicap mile feature of the Grover Cleveland-Oscar Club games here Saturday night in 4:13.6.

In his other starts he ran second in the 1500 meters at the Sugar Bowl, won the half-mile in the Knights of Columbus games here and ran second to Gene Venzke in a 4:13.1 mile at Boston.

WANTS TO TEACH

Cunningham said he was "more and more anxious to enter my chosen professional field" and expressed a desire for "a teaching position in a department of health and physical education, preferably somewhere in the Midwest."

Since receiving a doctorate from New York University in 1938 Cunningham has been a lecturer for the University of Kansas extension division.

Ten Battles On Mack's Card

Eddie Mack completed his program today for the Argonne fight show Thursday night at Mechanics Building.

Three four rounders, three sixes and a ten are billed, with Larry Bolvin of Providence tackling Darze Robertson of Alabama in the featured event.

The remainder of the card sends Al Rotundo of Providence against Ernie Burke of Portland, Johnny Eakew of Brockton against Bill Connolly of Roxbury, and Bill Tortolingo of Boston against Ed O'Tash of Portland in threes; Lou Fico of Providence against Jack Dubois of Portland, Jim Ranehan of South Boston against Bill Lancaster of Portland, and John Hayes of Roxbury against Al Sinibaldi of Portland, in sixes.

Toronto Villages Marooned by Snow

TORONTO, Jan. 22 (AP)—Winter's worst storm swept into the Lake Huron-Georgian Bay area during the weekend, while the rest of Ontario received relief from the zero temperatures of nearly a week.

Goderich and scores of villages and towns from Lake Huron as far west as Dufferin county were cut off from overland communication as snow drifted deep over highways. In the southern part of the province, however, the mercury crept up.

SURPRISE!
Stanford's captain, Don Williams, was dribbling along contentedly, minding his own business. Then Walt Bickerton of California hopped up from the rear, knocked the ball from his foe's hands. Walt must have said "boo," too. His opponent, minus the leather, looks as surprised as that. It's a useful court trick, this behind-the-back breakup.

MECHANIC THREAT TO NEWTON'S CROWN

By MICHAEL GILLOOLY

When you take into consideration the huge margin by which Mechanic Arts romped to victory in its opening meet of the season, the Artisans promise to make the 13th annual Northeastern affair a very interesting gathering on the Garden boards Saturday afternoon.

Against three intown schools last Thursday and Friday, Mechanic Arts tallied 100 points more than its nearest rival—and that score in its seasonal debut.

The competition at the North Station will be much keener than that offered in the Armory affairs held by the Boston schools every week but with no particular stand-out in the meet, Coach Dutch Holland's crew stands as much chance at the next school of breaking Newton's strangle hold.

For the past four years, Newton has won practically every major meet in this section. This year, there's a fair chance that this streak may be broken.

FARROW HEADS LIST

Joe Farrow, a standout in the past in the 600, heads the Mechanic Arts list of entries. Farrow is admittedly the tops in the city in this department and he may expect keen battle from teammate Charlie Field. In the quad meet Field passed Farrow in the final stretch to win this event on the Armory boards.

There's no denying that the Artisans have the relay team. At the Veterans of Foreign Wars meet, the quartet picked by Coach Dutch Holland equalled the Husky meet record set on the Garden track last year by Newton.

HULLUM FAST IN DASH

Leighton Hullum promises to cut the intown school a slice of the dash points when Coach Dutch Holland equalled the Husky meet record set on the Garden track last year by Newton.

Other Mechanic entries include William Morrissey and Bill Gustafson in the dash; Harold Petersen, John Yonakor and Sam Walker in the low hurdles; Lewis Watkins and John Clancy in the 300; John Desmond also in the 600; Pete Cassis, Joe Stearn and Field in the 1000; Tom Collins, Yonakor and Watkins in the high jump with Bill Allen added to this field for the relay.

Gil Dobie, Jr., son of the former Roster College football coach, is among the Newton high school entries. He's listed to run in the 300 along with Don Ashley and William Hurley. Fred Hall, in the 600, a veteran campaigner, heads the Orange and Black troupe.

Gardner high, entering its first major meet, may have something to say about the final outcome in spite of its small entry list.

John Kauppinen, ace cross country runner, is entered in the 1000 and should offer Dave Blair, Medford, a fine battle in defending his crown.

Leading gridders of this past fall will dominate the shot-put—there's Burt Oranburg, Boston English; Joe Kulis, Lowell; John Turner, Lawrence; Bob Barney and John Tamulevics, Brockton; and Harry Robart, Rindge Tech, just for a starter.

New Bedford high is expected to come up with another crack relay team—the Whalers will also present a serious threat in the high jump in Jack Hibbits. Hibbits tied for fourth in his specialty last year.

21 Night Games On A. L. Slate; Sox Open Away

Release of the American League schedule for 1940 reveals today that 21 night games will be played in three cities; that the Yankees will open the season in Philadelphia and engage the Washington Senators in their first home series; will play at home on Decoration Day and Labor Day, and are booked for only four September games with the Boston Red Sox, who are expected to challenge their league supremacy.

The Red Sox will open in Washington and will play their first home games on Patriots Day, April 19, both morning and afternoon.

There is a possibility that seven more night games will be added to the list as the two St. Louis clubs are trying to get together to light up Sportsman's Park by mid-season. Yankee night game dates are June 21 at Cleveland, July 5 at Philadelphia and July 26 at Chicago.

Instead of creating "off days" following night games, the American League will play the schedule as if all games were daytime contests.

The Athletics will get the day off preceding the night game but will play the next day.

In the National League it has been the custom to wrap two off days around a night game.

The all-star game is scheduled for July 9 in St. Louis.

Leaps 195 Feet To Ski Record

CHICAGO, Jan. 22 (INS)—Midwest ski fans hailed a new hero today in 20-year-old Torger Tøkle of New York, who broke the course record and hung up his 14th consecutive triumph in winning the 34th annual tournament of the Norge Ski Club at Fox River Grove, Ill.

Tøkle, who came to the United States from his native Norway less than two years ago, soared 190 and 195 feet in two jumps for a point total of 153.8.

His 195-foot effort broke a record of 194 feet set three years ago by Alf Engen of Salt Lake City. Second place went to Eugene Wilson of Auburn, Cal., who jumped 185 and 192 feet. George Kotlarek of Duluth, Minn., U. S. champion in 1937, was third with jumps of 172 and 171 feet.

Sutherland Seeks Conzelmann's Berth

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 22 (AP)—Dr. John (Jack) Sutherland, former football coach at Pittsburgh University, conferred with the Washington University athletic committee regarding a similar job here.

Sutherland has the backing of a powerful alumni faction which had been urging the release of Jimmy Conzelmann, who resigned a week ago after a championship season.

Breakneck Winner Enriched $80,000

BALTIMORE, Jan. 22 (AP)—Seventy-five owners have nominated a record total of 139 top three-year-olds for the Golden Jubilee running of the Pimlico Preakness May 11. The winner is expected to get an $80,000 pot of gold.

Headed by Col. E. R. Bradley's 1939 juvenile king, Bimelech, the field already lists most of last year's crack youngsters. More are virtually certain to come in as supplementary eligibles for the mile and three-eighths classic, among them Bimelech's chief two-year-old rival, Anky K. The son of Jack High is running the farm, and Tony Polari may not wait to make him eligible for the big stakes until he sees how the colt comes through the winter.

N. K. WINNER ENTERED
Otherwise, the turf's "royal family" of 1939 juveniles is well represented. Mrs. Parker Corning's Straight Lead, winner of the New England futurity, and a total of $41,800 last year, is entered. So is Mrs. H. C. Phipps' Merry Knight, impressive winner at a mile and 70 yards in the mud last season. This bay son of Sir Gallahad III earned $22,860 in '39.

These head about a dozen which earned their slots last year with winnings of $5000 or more each. Bimelech, short-priced winter book favorite to win the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and the Belmont, put $135,000 on the "fresh" on

The Annual Meeting of the Massachusetts Title Insurance Company will be held at the offices of the company in the Devonshire Building, 10 State Street, Boston, Massachusetts, on Monday, January 29, 1940 at 1:30 in the afternoon, to elect officers for the ensuing year and to transact such other business as may properly come before the meeting. C. A. GALLAGHER, Clerk.

Col. Bradley's bankroll.
Mrs. C. S. Payson's Epatant was good for $15,025. F. A. Firestone's Marogay, which did not race after July, collected $11,355. C. V. Whitney's Flight Command won $10,325 before retiring in August.

Boy Angler, which races for Bradley's niece under the nom de course of "Mr. French," drew down $10,095.

Several have had tests at distances over a mile. Bimelech breezed in with the mile and one-sixteenth Pimlico Futurity. From John Hay Whitney's barn has come the largest eligible list—seven, headed by Calory, which finished no worse than second in three 1939 outings.

Although the Preakness first was run 67 years ago, there was a lapse of several years with no racing. So the 1940 renewal marks the golden anniversary. The first winner received only $18,000. This year's Mr. Big, Pimlico officials say, will be carrying a haulful away, what with the $50,000 added money, the futurity fees to make and keep the contestants eligible and the $1500 for each supplementary claimant.

Seven Indiana Track Stars In Casey Meet

Indiana has sent many outstanding athletes to the Prout Memorial Games and this year will be no exception. Indeed, no fewer than seven Hoosiers will go to the starting line at the Boston Garden Saturday night when the Massachusetts Knights of Columbus conduct their 19th annual meet.

Don Lash, Tommy Deckard and Gregory Pice, two-milers; Campbell Kane in the 1000, Roy Cochran in the 600, and the University of Indiana relay team, will present the most formidable representation from a single state in the Saturday competition.

There are two Oklahomans, two Kansans, two Texans, two stars from Wisconsin, and others from Michigan, Missouri, Canada, New York and every New England state in last Saturday's games, which promise a thrill to fans everywhere. Don Lash has been a thrill producer ever since he first appeared in Boston. None who saw it will ever forget the dazzling early speed he showed against Glenn Cunningham and a starchy mile field in the 1937 Prout games, when the great Kansan was forced to do 1:19 in order to win.

Don Lash and Chuck Hornbostel were among the early Indiana stars to blossom under E. C. (Bill) Hayes, who will be on hand in person with his current mile relay, which will complete in the closing event of Saturday night's program. This Indiana team, which will include Cochran and Kane, will be pitted against an unusually fast Princeton quartet and a standard Holy Cross outfit, which, in mid-January form, was clocked in 3:24 in the V. F. W. meet.

Coach Hayes has sent in Hornbostel, Lash and Ivan Fuqua—three men who have been voted the outstanding performer of different Prout meets. It will be no surprise if a Hoosier wins this award again this year, and might possibly be little Tommy Deckard, 129-pound distance marvel, who is entered in the mile and two-mile.

Ex-Cornell Ace Cops 6 Titles In Two Weeks

By OLYMPIAN

Frank Englehardt of Salem, the former Cornell star, who has been the sensation of the early skating season, bagging a total of six championships during the last fortnight, will answer the call to post in the Men's Senior event in the great Silver Skates Derby which will be staged under the combined auspices of the Boston American-Record-Advertiser in the Boston Garden on February 4.

Entries for the Blue Ribbon ice carnival of the winter season close at midnight, next Friday. Only four days more for the knights and ladies of the flashing blades to send in their entries and get the chance of winning some of the most beautiful and costly prizes ever offered.

In addition to the seven pairs of silver skates that will be awarded to the winners of the seven races on the Silver Skates Derby program, the Beas Ehrhardt Cup and other special prizes will be presented. More about these prizes in tomorrow's American.

Because of his sensational racing this season Englehardt probably will go to the post a favorite in the Senior Men's Derby, but at no time this year has the Salem Comet met such a field of flyers as he will face in the Boston Garden a week from next Sunday.

Englehardt will not humble the field as he did in the Rhode Island State championships at Roger Williams Park, when before a crowd of 20,000 he won the quarter mile and the mile for the Mayor Collins' Cup and then went out to place in both the half mile and the three-mile championship for the Governor's Cup, to take the Rhode Island all-around skating championship with a total of 30 points.

Following his title triumphs in Rhode Island, Englehardt entered the New England Outdoor Speed Skating championships at Turner's Lake in Walpole and skated to victory in the one mile championship.

Whether Englehardt will be as successful indoors as he has been on the larger tracks out of doors remains to be seen. As experts have pointed out there is a vast difference between indoor and outdoor skating.

To give the entrants a chance to get into indoor form and to master the turns of the smaller tracks there will be a special practice session in the Boston Arena tomorrow night, followed by special practice races under the direction of Ben Levis and his Silver Skates officials.

ENTRIES CLOSE FRIDAY

Elsewhere on this page is printed a special coupon which with twenty-five cents (25c) will admit the holder to tomorrow night's special practice session. These reduced rates are made with the cooperation of the Boston Garden Arena Corporation.

Remember skaters, entries close next Friday, January 26 at midnight. No entries for the great Silver Skates Derby will be accepted after that time.

Salem Speed Skater

Northern N. E. Cahmp

LACONIA, N. H., Jan. 22 (INS)—Francis Englehardt of Salem, Mass., today won the Northern New England skating crown.

The 24-year-old bladerster de-throned Joseph Janel of South Norwalk, Ct., 80 to 61. Leo LaVallee of Pawtucket, R. I., was third with 60 points.

Englehardt captured the mile and placed in three other events. Miss Carmelita Landry of Fitchburg, Mass., defended her crown successfully, beating Miss Helen Clark of Stamford, Ct.

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 22 (INS)

—It's a fast, hard fought International-American League Hockey game played here tonight the Syracuse Stars defeated the Hershey Bears by a 4-1 score.

Angel Tests Bear Hug on Luigi

Paul Bowser will send The Angel flying onto the Arena mat Wednesday night against large Luigi Bagalupi in the featured event of his grapple program.

The Angel, who claims no beauty crown does claim to be a terrific matman, and will display his alleged rib-breaking Bear Hug for the first time here.

The program includes Ernie Dusek against Leo LeFebvre in the semifinal, and Bob Managoff vs. Ed Newman, Ernie Hefer vs. Algeo Savoldi, and George Linehan vs. Les Ryan.

But it's The Angel the customers will flock to see. He's an eye-fall, regardless of his wrestling ability.
